French Labor Asks Government Lift Ban From Madrid

General Confederation of Workers Urges Blum Government Reconsider Neutrality Stand and Allow Arms to Reach Loyalist Troops

Total on Strike Above 50,000

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 9.—The General Confederation of Labor tonight demanded that the French cabinet reconsider its neutrality stand toward the Spanish civil war.

At the same time, however, the powerful labor organization reaffirmed its support of Leon Blum's government.

The development came amid a new outbreak of stay-in strikes, called to enforce workers' demands. Fifty thousand strikers occupied factories and mills at opposite ends of France, 30,000 at Lille and 20,000 at Marseilles. The port of Le Havre was tied up.

The confederation, which claims 5,000,000 members, asked the government to re-study its ban on arms shipments to the Socialist-Communist-Republican Madrid government "in accord with the British government and other democratic countries."

Lille, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press from Havre).—Thirty thousand striking textile workers occupied factories here today.

The strike movement has not yet spread to the other big manufacturing centres nearby, such as Roubaix, Tourcoing and Arras.

Lille was the scene of the sharpest and longest strike in the May-June period of labor unrest.

The strikers demanded a 10 per cent wage increase. The dispute also involved the election of workers' delegates.

Paris, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The entire port of Le Havre was tied up today as a new epidemic of strikes spread through France. All activity ceased when dock workers quit in mid-afternoon, joining the 30,000 men and women who struck earlier in the great Lille textile region.

At Hauteville, even the sick joined in the strikes. About 150 patients in the departmental sanatorium quit their rooms to parade through the streets. They protested the failure of authorities to act on their complaints against the quality of the hospital food.

In the polling last August 17 the Union Nationale forces elected seventy-six members.

TOLEDO BATTLE

Toledo, Spain, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press from Havre).—The government forces holding Toledo today launched a "final" smashing attack on the rebels besieged in the historic Alcazar fortress atop the city, using dynamite, artillery and hand grenades.

The rebels had failed to reply to an ultimatum from the Madrid government promising their lives would be spared if they surrendered at once. They have been holding the fortress for forty-eight days. The ultimatum said women and children, with the rebels in the fortress, would be permitted to quit the building before it was finally stormed.

Madrid, Sept. 9.—Unofficial reports reaching the Spanish capital today said government militiamen had entered the subterranean passages of the Toledo Alcazar, in which 1,700 Fascist rebels have defied siege for nearly eight weeks.

Rebel guns within the Alcazar, for the first time since July 26, were mute last night and authorities believed daily pounding by six and ten-inch shells had driven the Fascists.

She was flown from Nova Scotia in a commercial plane.

GERMANY SOON TO DEMAND COLONIES HITLER INTIMATES

Four-year Programme of German Expansion Proclaimed By Fuehrer at Big Nazi Convention at Nuremberg

Associated Press
Nuremberg, Germany, Sept. 9.—Chancellor Hitler today proclaimed a four-year programme, embracing aggressive colonial demands, aimed at the goal of making Germany economically independent of the rest of the world.

The proclamation, sounded suddenly before 800,000 Nazis assembled in fourth annual convention, disclosed Dr. Fuehrer has signed decrees reorganizing the national economy and accelerating the planned production of all industrial and agricultural products.

Their realization, he declared, "is only a question of our energy and determination. Our colonial demands," the proclamation went on, "are part and parcel of this programme. We must build up our raw material forces."

TO INCREASE EXPORTS

The decrees also contained schemes for increasing German exports, but the details were not disclosed in the proclamation, which was read by Adolf Wagner, the Bavarian Nazi leader.

Wagner, who imitates Hitler perfectly, asserted the Reich had been made politically independent in the last four years; hence the next four would be devoted to economic independence.

In the proclamation, Hitler declared the directness of Nazi principles had been demonstrated by "our constantly recurring successes" in the midst of a troubled world.

Praising at length the industrial and economic achievements of his regime, Dr. Fuehrer pointed with pride to his building programme and, extolling "regeneration" of German arts, observed: "This occurred without a single Jew being in a position of influence."

Hitler emphasized "the shackles of the Versailles Treaty have been torn" (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Couple Who Arrived From Shanghai on Ss. Empress of Japan Fly Across Continent and Will Be in London on Seventeenth Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Miss Paula Lecler, writer, and Cecil Coleman, English cotton and silk buyer, disembarked here from the Ss. Empress of Japan, following her arrival from the Orient.

This morning, twenty-four hours later, they were on Ss. Queen Mary as she backed away from her New York pier, bound for England and France.

Next Monday, if all goes well, they will reach London, seventeen days out from Shanghai. It will be the fastest passage by regular transportation routes between the Orient and Europe, via North America.

Following is the Associated Press from Newark, New Jersey:

"Completing the semi-final leg of their seventeen-day trip from Shanghai to London, Miss Paula Lecler and Cecil Coleman arrived today at Newark airport en route to board the R.M.S. Queen Mary to New York."

"The couple arrived in Victoria, B.C., aboard the liner from the Orient yesterday, took a specially chartered plane from there to Seattle and there the regular plane for New York traveling through the night."

"If the Queen Mary, which sails at 2 o'clock this afternoon, eastern daylight time (10 a.m. Victoria time), makes the Atlantic voyage on schedule, the couple will arrive in London seventeen days after leaving Shanghai."

Miss Lecler, as she neared Victoria Monday afternoon aboard the Empress of Japan, decided she would like to make connections with the Queen Mary forty-eight hours later. So she wired to Victoria to have a plan waiting for her.

Her plans became known on shipboard and Mr. Coleman, who was also (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

No Mayor For Montreal Yet

Council Probably Will Have Acting Head Till December Election

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 9.—A mayorless Montreal until the municipal elections next December loomed as a possibility today.

An all-day conference of aldermen was held yesterday to choose a successor to Camille Houde, who resigned two weeks ago. In the end the discussion was adjourned until September 15.

Alderman J. Adhemar Raynault, member of the Quebec Legislature for L'Assomption, today predicted the meeting next week also would be adjourned. "The people will elect the next mayor of Montreal in December," he said.

Alderman Leo McKenna is acting chief magistrate in the absence of a mayor. His term of office will expire October 14, but the city council can replace him or extend his functions until the municipal elections, December 14.

BYRAM OUT OF HOSPITAL

Ex-railroad Executive Leaves Connecticut; D. Burdick Still in Hospital

Associated Press
Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 9.—Harry E. Byram, seventy-two, wealthy retired railroad executive, was discharged today from the Norwalk Hospital, where he had been since last Friday when he was shot in his Westport home.

The hospital supervisor said Byram, who frequently takes part in the senior golf tourney at Victoria, and Mrs. Frances Evans left immediately by automobile for New York City.

Mrs. Evans, forty, a New York resident, and Byram had planned to be married in New York last Saturday. In another hospital room, only three doors from that occupied by Byram, lay his thirty-six-year-old son-in-law, Don Burdick, who is accused of the shooting. Burdick is recovering from automobile accident injuries.

The state police, balked by Dr. Harry S. Phillips' insistence that Burdick should not be questioned for assistance in preparing their case against the New York broker accused of shooting "with intent to murder" his wealthy father-in-law.

To Make Northern Mines Accessible

Federal Government Will Spend $66,000 on Road, Aviation and Navigation Improvements in Yukon and Territories

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 9.—Improvement of transportation facilities into mining sections of the Yukon and Northwest Territories at a cost of $66,000, was announced here today by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines.

Part of the money will be spent in improving navigation into the Lake Athabasca gold field. The money came from a general vote of $1,500,000 provided for similar work throughout the country.

PLACER AREAS
In the Yukon district, money will be spent to complete a new road into Sulphur Creek, and to improve a trunk road into the middle section of Dominion Creek. Both roads will serve placer areas being developed, enabling a new camp to be built at the mouth of Sulphur Creek for stripping and thawing, preparatory to dredge operations.

Another road will be built to silver property in the Mayo district, which was reopened several months ago.

NEW LIGHTS
In the Territories, navigation lights will be installed between the mouth of Great Bear River and a La Bine Point on Echo Bay. A wharf is being built at the point and along the route.

The race will be open to any type of plane, after a single test over a New York airport, but each contestant must have a radio.

Long Arguments Are Presented

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald's Ruling Holds Up Immediate Action By City on Henley's Proposed Trip to London

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in Supreme Court Chambers today granted the application of John Day for an injunction restraining the City from paying any moneys for carrying on negotiations with bondholders in Great Britain and eastern Canada for refunding Victoria's total debt.

"It seems to be perfectly clear that the City Council has acted without jurisdiction and that the resolution must not be acted upon," said Mr. Justice McDonald in his judgment.

Before a well-filled courtroom, Frank Higgins, K.C., presented argument on behalf of Mr. Day, B. T. Elliott, K.C., represented the city.

Mayor David Leeming, Alderman P. R. Brown, D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller-treasurer, and C. S. Henley, who were named by the City Council as members of the party which would proceed to England, watched the hearing closely with H. S. Pringle, city solicitor. Other city officials and members of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association also attended.

In his argument, Mr. Higgins sketched the scheme adopted by the council.

PLAINTIFF'S ARGUMENT
The agreement, he claimed, not only covered payment of money to Mr. Henley, but also was to pay expenses of the city's delegates, but included guaranteed assistance by Mayor Leeming, Alderman Brown and D. A. Macdonald for Mr. Henley in securing legislative action to validate the refunding plan. Mr. Higgins maintained there was conclusive proof that the delegates appointed by the council had agreed to help Mr. Henley get the $30,000, for which he contended, they were to be given the trip to Great Britain.

Mr. Higgins contended the payment of their expenses by Mr. Henley—constituted payment beyond the authority granted in the Municipal Act which permitted payment of salaries and expense money by the city for strictly city delegates.

He cited Section 164 of the act which gave the council power of appointing delegates, before reaffirming his point that payment of expenses by Mr. Henley made them delegates for Mr. Henley, not for the council.

Mr. Justice McDonald questioned the difference between straight payment of expense money by the council and payment through Mr. Henley. If the expenses were paid by the council, they would be subject to scrutiny by the council, Mr. Higgins replied. He claimed that with the exception of the Mayor and Alderman Brown, who presented the motion for allocation of funds, the majority of the council was opposed to Mr. Henley handling the money.

The council had nothing but Mr. Henley's word to guarantee the expenses would be paid, Mr. Higgins said.

IN HENLEY'S HANDS
According to the motion passed by the council, he declared the mayor, Alderman Brown and Mr. Macdonald were no longer delegates of the city. "They put themselves in Mr. Henley's hands and do what he says," Mr. Higgins said.

"The city, I understand, is sending these people to do their best with the bondholders," Mr. Justice McDonald remarked. He asked if there would be any question of legality if Mr. Henley set the amount of expenses for each delegate, allowing each $1,000.

Mr. Higgins replied that would not leave the council the right to analyze the expenditures. "Was it suggested in argument that the $15,000 would be used in expenses?" the justice asked.

Mr. Higgins replied the amount Mr. Henley intended to make out of the deal had been withheld from the council.

Mr. Higgins continued with his second point, claiming that as soon as the mayor and Alderman Brown had (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1) entered into the agreement with Mr. Henley which would give them some interest—the trip—they came within the scope of Section 22 of the Municipal Act. That section deals with disqualification of civic officials who are interested in transactions of the council.

He reiterated his argument regarding the arrangement whereby the city representatives would work to secure passage of special legislation to validate the deal, saying such action would be taken for Mr. Henley's benefit inasmuch as it would secure approval of the $30,000 if the scheme were successful.

The city delegates must have realized they were in the wrong when they stipulated the need for legislative action; Mr. Higgins contended.

CITY'S CASE

Mr. Elliott opened his case by citing the early attention paid by the Legislature to refunding questions in 1916. He cited section 149 of the Municipal Act, which implied the Legislature considered refunding a matter of extreme emergency. It conveyed powers in such matters higher than other sections of the Municipal Act, Mr. Elliott held.

He continued with the citation of Section 164 covering the legal ability of the council to make appointment of delegates.

Mr. Elliott went into detail over particulars of communication from the city comptroller stating refunding urgent and pointing to the need for a term of thirty-five years for bonds at 4 per cent.

He quoted the city comptroller to the effect that a delegation should be sent to London to seek refunding approval from the bondholders and mentioned that official's approval of the Henley plan and the delegation appointed.

WITHIN COUNCIL JURISDICTION

The whole question was within the jurisdiction of the City Council by resolution, Mr. Elliott said. Should Mr. Henley's plan succeed, he would be paid $30,000. Otherwise he would receive $15,000.

A private act would be required for payment of the greater sum, he said.

In reply to a question from the bench, Mr. Elliott brought out the point the receipt for the $15,000 the city proposed to give Mr. Henley, for expenses, would be framed in such a manner that it would require restitution to the city of any difference between the actual expenses of the negotiations and the $15,000.

Expenses of the negotiations could not be determined, he said, adding the $30,000 on the transaction would be chicken feed if it were successful.

The mayor, Alderman Brown, Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Henley were needed to carry out the scheme, he said.

QUESTIONED RESTITUTION

Mr. Justice McDonald asked Mr. Elliott what the city had in its agreement covering the receipt of any part of the original $15,000 which might not be expended in the negotiations.

Mr. Elliott said the receipt would be phrased to cover that point.

Dealing with the vote on the scheme in the council meeting, Mr. Elliott claimed the actual decision resulted in a seven to four division in view of the fact one of the aldermen had mislaid his vote when the matter was put to the ballot.

Mr. Henley was going to London on a specific scheme for the benefit of the city, not on his own private business, he continued. A limit had been placed on the expenses, he said.

In conclusion he claimed the writ was of such a nature that the person who took it out had no status in court.

Technical debate over the ability of a taxpayer to institute the action concluded the hearing.

U.S. Loan a Great Success

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 9.—Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday the United States treasury offering of $400,000,000 of twenty to twenty-three year 2 1/2 per cent bonds had been nine times oversubscribed. Closing the books, he described the financing as "a great success."

He reiterated previous statements that "constantly growing confidence" in government credit that enabled the treasury to float a twenty to twenty-three year issue at 2 1/2 per cent interest. During the past year, the treasury had successfully lengthened the terms of its bonds without increasing the interest rate.

MANDATE OVER SYRIA ENDING

France Signs Treaty Providing
Three-year Transition;
Parliament to Be Set Up

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, Sept. 9.—The first step toward ending France's mandate over Syria was to be completed today with the signing of the new Franco-Syrian treaty.

The treaty, scheduled for signing at the Quai d'Orsay, provides for a three-year transition period during which various adaptations will be made, culminating in ending the French mandate and the entry of Syria into the League of Nations.

The Syrian Parliament, dissolved following the 1924 disorders, will be re-established within two months after elections have been held. The new parliament will name a cabinet and ratify the new treaty.

The accord is based on the treaty between Britain and Iraq and it guarantees protection for minority groups distinct from the dominating Moslem majority.

Truce Now At San Sebastian

Including men, women and children, from the upper parts of the ancient and crumbling fortress.

Machine-gun detachments and hundreds of militiamen with hand grenades were ready to storm the building.

Some advances, which could not be confirmed, stated the rebels had surrendered. Details were lacking.

Official pronouncements declared the Popular Front government had dealt insurgent Fascism a mortal blow with the capture of Pasaia in the northeast, the halting of a powerful rebel column near Santa Olalla, about thirty miles from Toledo, and with the socialization of many industries "owned by suspected enemies of democracy."

Confiscation of large rural estates belonging to the nobility and to wealthy, rightist and Fascist proprietors also was announced.

CORDOBA GAINS

The government also laid claim to fresh aviation victories in Cordoba province during the bombing of a Fascist concentration camp near Cerro Murrieno Mountain.

The ministry reported advance of government forces into the Santa Olalla sector about twenty-two miles from the provincial capital of Toledo.

A column of 1,000 national republican guards, recruited from the old civil guard forces, left Barcelona for Toledo to join the government army south of the capital.

By ROBERT B. PARKER JR.

Associated Press Correspondent
St. Jean de Luz, France, Sept. 9.—Foreign diplomats, according to Spain, labored today to prevent destruction of the city of San Sebastian, site of many summer embassies.

From their temporary headquarters in France, the ambassadors and ministers pondered sending a new appeal to both the government and the forces to spare the resort city from devastation and fire.

Most recent reports to the diplomats asserted Renteria and Pasaia, government outposts, were still held by the Socialist defenders. San Sebastian was declared their threat to a four-column drive toward the bay of Biscay city.

Rebel headquarters at Burgos asserted the Fascist troops had occupied Mount Jaizubel dominating Pasaia, thus "opening the way to the capital of Gulpuzcoa province."

REPORTS FROM CONSULS

Diplomatic efforts to save San Sebastian from the fate suffered by the coastal city of Irun, which was sacked and burned, were based largely on reports from consular officials still in the Basque resort.

Governor Antonio Ortega, municipal official, was declared to have dispatched hundreds of anarchists to front-line defenses to prevent the French from carrying out their threats to burn the city to prevent its downfall to the Fascists.

TOWN OCCUPIED

Burgos, Spain, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—Capture of Arenas de San Pedro, Avila province, hastened the Fascist campaign to encircle Madrid, the rebel provisional government announced today.

NO WORD FROM TWO IN PLANE

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 9.—Fear today was felt here for the safety of Hans Mirow and Eileen Stangroom who have been unreported since they took off from here on September 2 from Prince George, B.C., en route to Nome, Alaska.

Mirow, who operates the Mirow Flying Service out of Nome, left Seattle with Miss Stangroom on September 2 in his airplane which had been undergoing repairs.

Lisbon, Sept. 9.—Portuguese army and navy were anxiously watched today for signs of response to yesterday's attempted revolt on board two warships in Lisbon harbor.

Colonies After Arms Move

Associated Press
Geneva, Sept. 9.—League of Nations officials said today the return of Germany's colonies can come only as a result of negotiations with the mandatory powers, mainly Great Britain and France.

However, League circles generally viewed the new demand from Nuremberg as a logical sequel to Germany's rearmament.

Germany Soon To Demand Colonies, Hitler Intimates

and declared the army, navy and air force were capable of defending Germany against all enemies.

"Had I prophesied four years ago all that we have done, the world would have laughed at me as a crazy man," Der Fuehrer said.

He contrasted "unrest" elsewhere in the world with the "peaceful" Olympic Games in Germany and added:

"Even the Jewish scribes can no longer lie about us. What we have achieved we have done at nobody else's expense. If other nations had attended to their own business, there would be a stronger community of interest in Europe today."

Other governments, the Reich Chancellor stated, had nowhere near the difficulties of Germany, chiefly because of Germany's limited soil and the density of her population.

SAYS THEY MUST EXPORT

"Germany is compelled to obtain raw materials by the sale of industrial goods abroad," he continued. "It is regrettable the world does not understand this."

"To buy one unit of fat, several units of German products must be exported. We must export at all costs."

"It shows a lamentable lack of understanding of our position when we are criticized for low export prices."

"Had Germany not lost her colonies, we could master our difficulties more easily. A state leadership like that in Germany today would know how to convert colonies into economic spaces."

Germany's standard of living, Der Fuehrer insisted, has become relatively high. However, he said, wages cannot be raised just now.

DENOUNCES COMMUNISM

Hitler's proclamation also assailed Communism, declaring in grave words that "bad times reign all about us."

He denounced "Communist wire-pullers," whom he said, "we National Socialists never have feared, but against whom we always have warned others."

Strengthening Germany's official sympathy for other so-called Fascist states, Der Fuehrer declared: "We feel ourselves bound to all countries which follow the same impulses as we."

LONGER ARMY SERVICE

Hitler mentioned the new, doubled, two-year military service, asserting: "I have no doubt but that German youth will serve without batting an eyelid."

He said the government was in the army during the Great War.

CONTEST IN SPAIN

Earlier, pointing a warning finger at Spain's bloody civil war, Julius Streicher, ardent anti-Semite, had told the Congress Germany "is determined not to tolerate the organized and systematic destruction of civilization."

Streicher, who also is Nuremberg district leader, greeted with special words of praise representatives of the "greatest anti-Communist organization"—a group of Italian Fascists who are attending the convention—and, turning to Spain, declared Germany "year after year has raised its voice in warning against Bolshevism."

CALLED MARTYRS

On a list of Nazi dead, revered by the assembly delegates as martyrs who perished in the "fight against Bolshevism," were the names of four Germans executed recently by government sympathizers in Spain.

In his keynote speech, Minister without Portfolio Rudolf Hess, without mentioning France by name, declared governments "already are unable to enforce among their own people the neutrality (towards Spain) which was suggested by themselves."

"For the sake of the culture and civilization of the world, we must continue to warn against Bolshevism, which in Spain reveals itself in all its terrible wickedness," he added.

FRANCE NOT YIELDING

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 9.—Informed sources said today France, in the face of Chancellor Hitler's demand for Germany's lost colonies, would refuse to yield her share in Africa under the menace of the growing German army.

spent "hundreds of millions of francs" improving Togo and the Cameroons. The area, they declared, was a "paying proposition for France."

Togo is rich in iron deposits, rubber and dye woods, while the Cameroons produce timber, hides, ivory and the area is especially suited for raising livestock.

Togo and the Cameroons were captured from Imperial Germany by Franco-British troops in the Great War.

LONDON SILENT

London, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The government heard a new German demand for colonies in silence today, but informed persons said the door was not officially shut on the question.

Under League of Nations mandates, the United Kingdom holds more than 840,000 square miles of former German colonial possessions.

It was recalled that Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain last April 6 told Parliament the government was not considering transfer of any mandates entrusted to it by the League, however.

Jan Hofmeyr, South African Minister of the Interior, said at Dar-es-Salaam:

"If Africans are to be treated as pawns in the European game, then it is right for us fellow Africans to stand together and say: 'Hands off Africa!'"

Any consideration of transfer, he added, must follow the fullest consultation with all sections of inhabitants.

Hearing On Seattle Strike

Board Tomorrow Will Consider Arguments in P.-I. Dispute

Associated Press
Seattle, Sept. 9.—Edward S. Smith, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, arrived from Washington, D.C., by air liner today to preside at tomorrow's hearing on the American Newspaper Guild strike which closed Seattle's morning newspaper, The Post-Intelligencer, August 12.

Smith declined to comment on the case, brought by the Seattle Guild chapter on a complaint that two veteran Post-Intelligencer employees were discharged for Guild activity.

The Hearst newspaper management contended the men were dismissed for cause.

"The strike is a very important event in American history—I can't amplify that statement," Smith said.

anxious to reach England as quickly as possible, decided to join Miss Lecler in the plane trip across the continent.

An hour after the Empress docked yesterday morning, the couple took off on their special plane for Seattle.

Miss Lecler is writing a book which she will call, "Interviewing the World in Eight Weeks." She left New York City on June 23 last, and is traveling light—two dresses, a hat, one pair of shoes, necessary lingerie, a coat and a portable typewriter is all she is carrying.

All Mr. Coleman carried when he boarded the plane in Victoria was an overnight bag. The rest of his baggage will be shipped by rail and steamer, and will be in England in about two weeks.

Had Miss Lecler and Mr. Coleman been aboard one of the Empresses which crossed the North Pacific and been able to make direct connection at New York with the Queen Mary, they could have made the Shanghai-London jaunt in about thirteen days.

The Empress of Japan, coming via Honolulu, travels a much greater distance and loses twelve hours in Honolulu.

Victoria is now an important point on the fastest possible route between the Orient and England.

Japan Warships Sent to China

Tokyo, Sept. 9.—Two Japanese destroyers steamed at full speed today across Chinese waters today as an official investigation of the reported killing of a Japanese at Paochow was begun.

The destroyer Wakatsuki was ordered to Paochow with instructions to protect the Japanese mission charged with the investigating the death of Junzo Nakano, drugstore proprietor who died under mysterious circumstances last week.

Members of the mission, who arrived at Canton aboard the gunboat Sago, halted their journey to await the arrival of the destroyer Sanaye. The Sanaye was to take the investigators aboard and continue the voyage to Paochow.

BRITISH POUND UP AT $5.06 1-4

Situation in France Is Factor in Rise at New York and Elsewhere

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 9.—The pound sterling climbed upward to new high ground in world markets today as demand for the British unit from continental Europe followed the clamoring of French Leftist workers for assistance to the Loyalist Spanish government.

The Canadian dollar and other major currencies were steady to firm in terms of the United States dollar.

Banking quarters here said a major part of the rise of the pound to $5.06 1/4 in New York, a new high since August, 1934, was directly traceable to fears the French General Confederation of Labor in a momentarily expected pronouncement might champion the Leftist demands for aid to the Madrid government.

Bankers in Italy and Switzerland reported a rush of French citizens to put their wealth in safe deposit boxes in those countries.

ITALIAN PLANE IS BAGGED IN SPAIN

Havas News Agency

Barcelona, Sept. 9.—Charges that Italy and Germany were aiding the rebel cause in violation of their neutrality pledges were renewed here today after the shooting down of an insurgent plane allegedly piloted by an Italian army officer.

The anti-Fascist militia radio station here declared the machine was shot down by government anti-aircraft guns and charged both Italy and Germany still were furnishing planes to rebel forces.

"This situation cannot continue," the loyalist announcer warned. "For every German or Italian plane delivered to the rebels, France must deliver one of its planes to Madrid."

URGE LABOR MAN FOR C.N.R.

Canadian Press

Montreal, Sept. 9.—Appointment of a labor representative on the new board of directors of the Canadian National Railways was urged today in a resolution passed at the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The proposal was that labor representation should be through the Trades and Labor Congress.

Development of housing schemes was strongly favored by a number of speakers on a resolution sponsored by the Winnipeg and District Trades and Labor Council. In any building scheme undertaking union rates of wages must be paid to the workers employed, it was urged.

Opposition was expressed to any use of unemployed workers in "house-building" at less than union wages.

The resolution adopted, consolidating a number of others, was that the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada immediately urge on the government the creation of housing schemes throughout the Dominion and that the existing legislation be so amended to encourage such schemes and developments by cities and municipalities at trade union rates of wages and financed through the Bank of Canada.

What was described as failure of Canadian governments to find a remedy for unemployment or a more equitable means of distributing the necessities of life, was deplored in a resolution from Toronto Street and Electric Railway employees.

DEMOCRATS IN BALLOT LEAD

Capture Major Part of Votes in Washington State
Primary Election

Associated Press
Seattle, Sept. 9.—Faced by the phenomenal loss of Lieutenant Governor Victor A. Meyers, Democratic incumbents who sought renomination were apparently assured of success as additional returns were compiled today from the Washington primary election. The Democrats also captured the major share of the total vote cast.

Meyers, Seattle orchestra leader, who took his politics lightly until elected in the Democratic landslide four years ago, piled up a total of 87,328 votes in 1,336 of the 2,866 precincts in the state, far outdistancing his Democratic opponents.

Charles B. Maybury of Olympia, former state director of licenses, leading for the Republican nomination, polled 16,239 votes in the same number of precincts in yesterday's poll.

Governor Martin, seeking renomination in the Democratic ticket, polled 74,819 votes in 1,399 precincts, to 64,805 cast for John C. Stevenson of Seattle, "production for use" candidate. Former Governor Roland H. Hartley, Everett lumberman, led the Republicans with 27,202, outdistancing his field.

BLANKET BALLOT

The election was complicated by the injection of the "production for use" proposal by the Washington Commonwealth Federation, the Townsend Pension Plan and the initial use in the state of the blanket ballot. The new ballot form apparently did not, however, prove as confusing to voters as had been anticipated.

Townsend sponsored candidates were leading in several congressional districts. The Commonwealth approved candidate, Warren G. Magnuson of Seattle, had gained the nomination in the first district, formerly represented by the late Marion A. Zionscheck.

SUN MOTOR IS DEMONSTRATED

Experts at World Power Conference in Washington See Newest Machine; One-half Horsepower Steam Engine Operates

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 9.—An engine run by sun power, and described as likely to enter the commercial field in "not so many years," has given world power experts a startling glimpse of future possibilities.

Distinguished delegates to the third world power conference here crowded into a little open air laboratory behind the Smithsonian Institution yesterday to examine the first practical "sun motor" designed to convert solar heat into cheap energy.

Dr. C. G. Abbot, the institution's secretary, who designed the engine after twenty years of research, told his guests such machines might some day replace the earth's dwindling oil and coal supply.

A minor accident kept the delegates from seeing his invention in actual operation, although earlier it had driven a chugging little steam engine before a battery of movie cameras.

MIRACLES USED

The inventor explained the generation of power was all done with mirrors. The heart of the sun motor was three curved metal reflectors, clamped in a nine-foot rectangular frame. They focused the sun's rays on three pencil-thin glass tubes, containing a dark fluid with a high boiling point.

When the concentrated glare had brought this liquid to 400 degrees Fahrenheit it flowed through insulated copper tubes to a boiler, which in turn drove a one-half horsepower steam engine.

Engineers and industrialists from four continents tossed eager questions at the Washington scientists as they stood on tip-toe to glimpse details of the motor.

Dr. Abbot told them he had used a similar device to bake bread and cook meals at Mount Wilson, California.

"I have estimated," he said, "that such machines, erected on a large scale could produce 40,000 horsepower a day from the sun falling on a single square mile of desert."

KING EDWARD IN AUSTRIA

Specialist Assures Sovereign His Ears are in Healthy Condition

Canadian Press From Havas
Vienna, Sept. 9.—King Edward VIII has received assurances from Prof. Heinrich Neumann, noted Vienna ear specialist, that his ears are in perfect condition and have not suffered a recurrence of the ailment which beset the monarch three years ago, a communique issued by the British Embassy here said today.

The British sovereign, en route home from a Mediterranean cruise, visited the specialist for examination yesterday as he did last year following a vacation, the communique stated. The specialist advised him last year to return within twelve months.

President Miklas of Austria received King Edward today in the presence of Chancellor Schuschnigg. A military guard rendered honors as His Majesty arrived and departed.

Mental World Of Babies Studied

Geneva Professor Reports His Explorations at Harvard Tercentenary

By Science Service
Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 9.—A glimpse into the mental world of baby and small child was afforded the scientists gathered here from all over the world for the Harvard Tercentenary celebration when Prof. Jean Piaget, professor of the history of scientific thought at the University of Geneva, described a child's way of thinking.

The little baby lives in a sort of moving picture world, Prof. Piaget's report indicated. He sees his surroundings as a series of pictures that have no permanence, no reality when they pass out of his sight. Almost to the end of his first year he believes in "things" which "disappear" from his field of perception, they simply cease to be.

"Between the ages of five and eight months," said Prof. Piaget, "when the child already knows well enough to seize any solid objects which he can see, one has only to cover them with a cloth, or place a screen in front of them at the moment when the baby's hand is directed towards them, and he will give up looking for them, and immediately lose his interest."

"I have even observed this in systematic hiding the bottle when my six months' old son was about to take it."

BEHIND SCREEN

"But one can see a still more curious reaction around nine or ten months, when the child is capable of seeking the object behind the screen, and the motion of real exterior permanence begins to put in an appearance. For example, when the baby is placed between two pillows and he has succeeded in finding an object hidden under the right one, the object can be taken from his hands and placed under the left pillow before his very eyes, but he will look for it under the right pillow where he has already found it once before, as if the permanence of the object was connected with the success of the former action, and not with a system of external displacements in space."

MOVING PICTURES

In short, Prof. Piaget summed up, the primitive world of the child is not made up of permanent objects, but of moving pictures which return periodically into non-existence and come back again as the result of the proper action.

The baby, in handling his toy will turn it until he finally gets a notion of a "wrong side" of objects. But this does not come right away. He has a five or six months' old baby his bottle and turn it around before his eyes. If the child can see a bit of the rubber nipple at the other end of the bottle, he immediately turns the bottle, he immediately turns the bottle, he immediately turns the bottle.

When at last the baby has built up a more correct idea of the world and the objects about him, he has still to master the problem of perspective. Even the child of five or six will feel that a mountain changes in size as he approaches it. Prof. Piaget has noted this in traveling with his own little children among the mountains of his home land.

R.C.M.P. MAN IS DROWNED

Canadian Press
Whitehorse, Y.T., Sept. 9.—Constable J. P. Hartnett, in charge of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment at Carmacks, Y.T., was drowned when his canoe capsized in the river near the Yukon settlement, according to word received here yesterday.

Constable Hartnett and A. R. Hayes, government telegraph operator at Carmacks, had just pushed off from the river bank when the craft capsized. The constable disappeared, but Hayes managed to cling to the overturned canoe until rescued by friends who were on the shore.

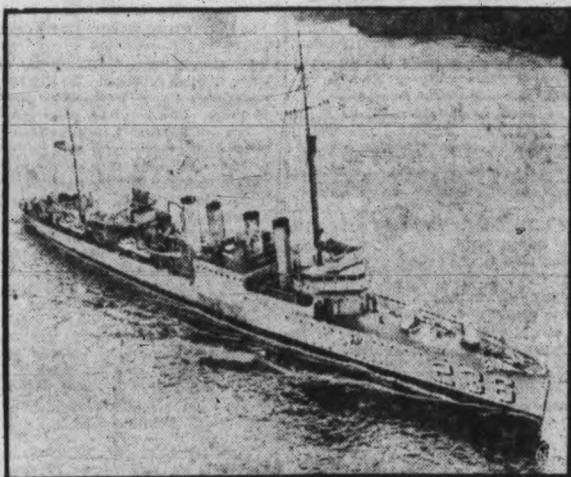

Constable Hartnett, who was twenty-six years old, is survived by his mother at Big River, Sask.

Judge Macdonald gave his decision in the case of a Calgary printing company which sought to have the court declare that a debt, incurred in 1927, was owing by a former client.

Spaniards Deny Bombing

U.S. DESTROYER KANE

Washington, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The Madrid government has formally disavowed responsibility for the attempted bombing of the United States destroyer Kane by an unidentified airplane off the Spanish coast on August 30.

In a note to the United States embassy yesterday, the Spanish Foreign Office reiterated earlier oral statements that no loyalist airplanes were operating in the vicinity at the time and that, moreover, the government aviation corps had no machines of the type which attacked the destroyer.

Baldwin Will Extend Holiday

But British Prime Minister Not Planning Early Resignation, Say Informed Circles

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 9.—Parliamentary circles, commenting on the decision of Prime Minister Baldwin to extend his holiday until October, discounted suggestions the Prime Minister was likely to resign soon.

They asserted it was highly improbable he would leave office before the coronation of Edward VIII next May, except for some unexpected development.

An announcement last night said Mr. Baldwin's doctors had decided he needed further rest to recover from the mental and nervous strain of the past twelve months.

AT CONFERENCE
The Prime Minister's request that Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, take over leadership of the Conservative Party Conference at Margate, October 2, however, provides support for the assumption heard in political circles that Mr. Chamberlain will succeed Mr. Baldwin in the premiership after the coronation.

These circles consider the fact that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will preside at Margate is less an indication of Mr. Baldwin's failing health than a commonsense arrangement for bringing the prospective party leader in close touch with the rank and file at the best opportunity.

REWARD GIVEN FOR HONESTY

Canadian Press
Glasgow, Sept. 9.—The reward of honesty was set today by a Scottish court at 5 per cent.

Mrs. R. Lynn of Glasgow found two £20 notes ($100 each) on Argyle Street in Dunoon. The money was claimed by Miss Alexandra Cameron of Dunoon, who offered a reward of a shilling a pound.

The finder asked two shillings. The question was referred to police court, which allowed a shilling a pound ($ per cent).

Reserve Put On Flathead Lands

Aid May Be Given By B.C. Government to Those Drilling For Oil

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 9.—The British Columbia Government has placed a reserve on thousands of acres of land in the Flathead Valley, in eastern British Columbia, and may aid private interests who are drilling for oil and gas. Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, said here yesterday following a visit to the area.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, also a member of the excursion party to the Flathead Valley, said he felt the government should give the drilling enterprise its sympathetic co-operation and support.

The only means of access to the valley is through the Blackfoot Forest Reserve Highway on the United States side of the international boundary.

Tom Uphill, M.P.P. for Fernie, claimed $75,000 would make a passable road from Coal Creek to the Flathead Valley. Such a road, he said, would give access from the Canadian side to the Glacier National Park in Montana, which adjoins the Waterton Lake Park in Alberta.

He also claimed $5,000,000 damage to timber by fire this summer might have been prevented had better access been possible to the area.

Returning from the front I myself saw the bodies of women and children killed by bombs identified as German planes," the message read.

"There are constant reports the Italians and Germans are steadily supplying the rebels with armaments and services."

Says Spanish Rebels Use German Bombs

London, Sept. 9.—Viscount Churchill, heading the British voluntary ambulance unit in Spain, yesterday charged in a cable to the Spanish medical aid committee here that Germany and Italy were continuing to send arms to the Spanish rebels in violation of their neutrality declarations.

Says Hitler

THAT HISTORIC AND INTERESTING Bavarian city of Nuremberg was selected by Reichsfuehrer Hitler as the point at which his proclamation for a four-year German programme should be announced today. It was read to an assembly of 800,000 Nazis, assembled in fourth annual convention, by Herr Adolf Wagner, the Bavarian leader of Hitler's followers.

One of the main points of the proclamation was the determination of der Fuehrer to make "aggressive colonial demands." The reason given for emphasis of this part of the programme was the intention of making Germany economically independent of the rest of the world. "We must build up our raw material forces," says the decree, which then goes on to state definitely that German exports must be increased by schemes, the details of which were not made apparent.

There seems to be in this a species of economic conflict. "Surely Hitler is looking backward. He wants more raw materials and a larger market for manufactured products. Time was when Canada was regarded by Great Britain as a happy hunting ground for capturing raw materials and the logical market for the finished article fashioned out of those self-same natural resources. Then Canada grew up, established her own factories, began herself to utilize the products of the land and all it embraces.

The economic horizon, within the British Commonwealth—it was not called by that name at the time of Canada's industrial birth—underwent a radical change. Fiscal fluctuations in the meantime have imposed handicaps upon the Dominion's trade and commerce with the outside world, but, fundamentally, it still remains true to the principle that while it naturally must use to its best advantage Nature's bounty under innumerable heads, it must take from other countries such things as they have to sell of which it stands in need.

No matter how many proclamations Reichsfuehrer Hitler may issue, no matter how belligerent their tone, the Third Reich, in the long run, will have to recognize the truth that the expansion of an export trade must have as its corollary an increase in import trade. Before the war, Germany was the high priest of high protection. Tariff reformers of Great Britain, hopelessly snowed under in 1905 when Arthur Balfour ran under the 1902 Chamberlain proposal, never missed an opportunity to point to Germany's fiscal policy as the reason why Great Britain was not progressing industrially. Yet in 1913, for example, Britain was enjoying a measure of prosperity vastly superior in most respects to that of Germany.

Back of this "aggressive colonial demands" part of the Reichsfuehrer's proclamation is something more sinister than may penetrate the mind on first consideration. Under the Treaty of Versailles, various German possessions were disposed of, some mandated and watched over under League of Nations authority, but the question now arises as to what means Germany proposes to back up the "demands" to which we have referred. Supposing, for example, she insists that what was formerly German Southwest Africa be returned to her, that the Islands in the Pacific over which Japan has jurisdiction ought again to become purely German, or any other property which constituted part of the German Empire in the days of the Hohenzollerns—by what means does she propose to enforce her will as intimated in the Nuremberg proclamation today?

The obvious answer to this question is that, when Germany thinks herself strong enough, she will repeat history and try to make way again for her "place in the sun." But another adventure to achieve what was Kaiser Wilhelm's objective in 1914 would be an entirely different one in, say, 1940, or even earlier. In other words, the nations which surround her, to use a colloquialism, have "got her number." Russia is not worried because Germany and Italy have made up their minds to crush Communism. The Russia of today, militarily speaking, is by no means the Russia of twenty years ago. France, for good or evil, is "ready for Germany." Great Britain, always striving to stave off a conflict which surely would finish civilization completely, happily, is wielding her influence for sanity in international affairs. This she will continue to do; but there are limits to her capacity to hold the balance between hostile forces.

An Important Mission

TONIGHT, ON THE R.M.S. Aorangi, Canadian and British delegates will leave here to attend the meeting of the Federation of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire in New Zealand. In their number are included many prominent British and Canadian leaders of industry and economic thought.

There are some cynics who regard these inter-empire gatherings as a sort of exhaust for post-panic exuberance, a suggestion of a case of you pat my back and I'll pat yours. They are nothing of the kind. Even supposing no resolutions passed will have the slightest influence on the various governments of the British Commonwealth, the fact remains that an interchange of opinion between the "men behind the scenes of trade and commerce" ought to be well worth while.

The more the businessmen of the empire get together and exchange ideas the better it should be for the business future of the empire. Economic nationalism is the curse of the time, the breeder of international conflict, the harbinger of another war to cure the ills of the Great War—which was supposed to be the war to end war.

We wish the delegates to New Zealand "bon voyage" and couple with it the hope that their visit will not only be pleasant but also profitable in the widest empire sense of the term.

A Great Physician

ONE OF THE MOST BRILLIANT members of the medical profession, Baron Moynihan, is no more. He died yesterday; but his fine achievements, his understanding of human nature and human frailties will remain on the permanent record of his calling.

Baron Moynihan was a frequent visitor to Canada. He had relatives in this country. In one of his public speeches he paid fine tribute to the Dominion and to the outstanding ability of its medical practitioners. He spoke from the heart.

The distinguished doctor who never again will use his delicate instruments or his profound knowledge in the interests of suffering humanity leaves behind him myriads of friends all over the world who will remember him not only as a talented medical scientist but one who had the courage of his convictions when he spoke or wrote on behalf of the unfortunate invalid.

Lord Moynihan it was who founded the "Voluntary Euthanasia Society," which has for its object the release from life of those who are suffering from incurable diseases. Criticism from various quarters descended upon his head for his advocacy of this what, after all, was a shock to what remained of the Victorian era's ideas of one phase of public morals.

It is not for us to attempt to pass judgment on Lord Moynihan's view of such a delicate ethical subject; but it may be said that he knew what terrible physical suffering cancer caused. He knew so much about it—and he confessed some time ago that surgery had advanced about as far as possible.

Simplicity of confession, frank suggestion of what he thought proper to ameliorate human suffering, could these attributes be boiled down to an epitaph for Lord Moynihan, would it not read: "He Worked for Less Suffering?"

Debt Adjustments in Alberta

ALBERTA'S DEBT-ADJUSTMENT

bill, passed by the Legislature and ready to become law on proclamation, will, according to The Financial News, reduce automatically and immediately all debts contracted before 1932 by the amount of money paid on those debts since 1932, whether those payments comprised monies on account of either principal or interest. In other words, no interest on pre-1932 debts is to be recognized and any interest that has been paid can be treated as payments on principal. The balance of principal is to be spread over ten years on an ascending scale.

For instance, an insurance company or individual lending $5,000 on a mortgage in 1929 at 6 per cent may have received $2,100 in interest; the principal to be paid or reduced and renewed in 1939. Under the Alberta legislation $1,800 paid since 1932 is treated as payment on principal and the debt is reduced to $3,200, payable in ten years without interest.

If anyone thinks that is just another piece of legislation, he should, says The Financial News, stop and think about it. If such terms were general in Canada, not an insurance company with minimum contracts could hope to maintain them and policy dividends would disappear. In insurance, it is recalled, Canada's millions have most of their savings. Private lenders would suffer similarly.

The victory of Mr. J. H. Forester, Liberal, in Burrard, is seen by The Financial News as a blow to Socialism in British Columbia. For Burrard, considered a stronghold of the C.C.F. movement, represents a good cross-section of Greater Vancouver. "The C.C.F.," says the News, "has made no progress in any province outside British Columbia, and it would appear to be losing ground in the one province where it has gained the distinction of forming the official opposition."

LOOSE ENDS

America goes back to nature with a refrigerator and cocktail shaker—the boom is hard on motorists—the great craft of obscene story making continues to flourish—And we face nasty alternatives.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

TO NATURE

THE PRESENT VOGUE for elaborate automobile trailers is hailed with delight by editorial writers as a sure sign that America is going back to nature. By next year, they say, millions of cosy trailers will be on the road, filled with people who are eager to get away from the city and back to the charm of the wild life. America, as in the time of its ancestors, is nature-conscious once more.

This makes a nice sound and the fact that it is not true will not prevent it from being repeated. America is going back to nature. It is a sure sign that America can't and won't ever go back to nature, unless the scheduled blowing up of all western civilization forces it to live once more in caves.

So say that trailer, with its beds, stove, plumbing, electric fan, radio and bridge table is a means of going back to nature. It is an insult to us who have really gone back. It is an affront to nature, also. I think it must make Mother Nature scream to have a trailer parked in some leafy bower on a moonlight night, while the inhabitants who have gone back to the wilderness, are sitting inside playing the radio and drinking cocktails out of the electric refrigerator, and playing contract according to the latest of Mr. Culbertson's aberrations.

Yet in the end the trailer will probably be found to be a good thing for it will keep such people on the road. They will never venture far from their refrigerator, their electric fan and bridge table. They will leave the woods to those who really want to use them; that is, until roads are built into them and, such is the present public urge to get back to nature, such is the worship of the virgin wild, that roads are being built everywhere, into the wildest spots, so that people in high-powered cars, commune with the scenery and worship the God of Nature, traveling at least sixty miles an hour.

CROWDED

THE AUTOMOBILE, of course, is an alien in the woods. It is a native of the city and belongs there, but it is getting so that there is no room for the automobile in the city. Since the depression ended and the present boom hit Victoria (all unrecognized by the inhabitants, who still imagine that times are hard), parking—a car has become a difficult, slight-of-hand trick. Nearly every day to get to Fred's estate, I have to drive around four or five blocks and usually park at least three away from his door, and last week I took note and discovered that I had driven exactly a mile and seven-tenths trying to find a parking space.

I estimate that if the present boom continues and the next depression is postponed for a couple of years longer, you will have to park your car up by Hillside Avenue as they do in New York.

Down in the States I see that they are solving this problem by building one-story stores, with the roof made into a parking space for store patrons. We shall need something of this sort here pretty soon. Or subways. This is the penalty you must pay for our present state of high and unanticipated prosperity.

FOR ART'S SAKE

IT IS AN INSPIRING THING to think (if you haven't any other heavy thinking to do at the moment) that what labor and genius is devoted to in our civilization is to the composition of obscene jokes. The number of them is incalculable. They spring at you from every smoking car and every dining table. You can hardly meet a man and not tell him for half an hour without having to listen to the latest of his collection of dirty stories. They have become the chief medium of intellectual exchange in our current world, the means by which one mind stretches out to another for communion and solace.

A visitor from any other civilization might find this an interesting study in psychoanalysis and deduce from it many disagreeable things about the state of the modern mind; but what appears to me more interesting is the indefatigable energy of the people who invent all this stuff. Who are they? Where do they live? Do they sit at a desk all day in some dank, foul attic, exhausting their minds, fairly tearing their souls out as they try to conjure up new and higher visions of obscenity? Or are they of that inspired, poetic temperament which gets inspiration out of the air, senses a dirty story instinctively, like a bad smell?

Apparently they work for the love of the work. There is no pay, no reward, nothing but the satisfaction of a job well done, art for art's sake. Obscene men who will never receive a cent or the least public credit for some monstrous piece of vulgarity evidently feel that their creation is reward enough, like a penniless poet turning out a sonnet.

But in this commercial age, such selflessness cannot be expected to endure long. You may expect at any moment to read that the Obscene Story Writers' Union has been formed in Kansas City or Los Angeles to protect the craft, to see that it is given recognition and adequate pay and, no doubt, to raise the ethical standards and the artistic integrity of the obscene story in America.

ALTERNATIVES

THE GENERAL NOTION in Europe seems to be and it is widely accepted here by the intellectuals, that sooner or later we shall have to choose between Communism and Fascism. There are to be worldwide blocs of communist nations, opposed by worldwide blocs of Fascist nations. There is to be no compromise. You must either lose your freedom under a communistic dictatorship, or a fascist one, because the world's economy has become such a complicated, delicate thing, the world's politics so brittle, that control cannot be trusted to a clumsy machine like democracy; must be placed in the hands of a centralized authority whether communist or fascist.

Why, you have the spectacle of English publications asking leading citizens which they would prefer, as if one or the other were inevitable. It is a charming prospect and if it is the real prospect ahead, then it is our fault—that is the thing to remember. If we don't make a better success of democracy pretty soon, we shall have no one but ourselves to blame if it goes down. To make a success of it it is going to require a lot of the individual voter—more intelligence, more knowledge, more good will than he is showing at present. The demands on him are going to be heavier and heavier. The overshadowing question of our time is whether he is going to be equal to them.

A SICKLY BABY

The only thing we (England) got out of the war was the League of Nations; its parentage was always doubtful. It was left on the doorsteps of Europe and has suffered from the rickets.

Rev. Dr. Frederick Norwood of London.

Letters to The Editor

SOLVE RIDDLE OF ANN'S AGE

To the Editor—With reference to the riddle proposed by R.P. in yesterday's paper the age of Ann is 18 years. The solution is as follows: The difference between the two girls' ages at any date is a constant (always the same number of years). (a) At the present time the difference is represented by 24 years less Ann's present age; (b) some time ago the difference was Mary's age then, less 12 years (half of 24), i.e., Ann's present age less 12 years.

Hence Ann's present age, less 12 years, is equal to 24 years less Ann's present age.

By transposition and addition—twice Ann's present age, 36 years. Therefore Ann's age, 18 years.

Q.E.P.

(Signed) X. Y. Z.

Coventry Avenue.

To the Editor—In answer to R. P. Colwood, his problem as to the age of Ann seems like an echo from the "gay nineties." Many of the not-so-forgotten, well-remembered "when" about the turn of the century, that problem, appearing in some newspaper, went the rounds of the press of the continent and for a time was a common catchword, "How Old Is Ann?" Answer: Ann's present age is 18 years.

LABUNTUR ANNI.

To the Editor—In answer to the query of R. P. Colwood as to the age of Ann, I would advise that she was eighteen years old. I figure it this way:

GYMNASTS VISIT TO NORTH SAANICH

To the Editor—I noticed in a news item giving the itinerary of the troupe of gymnasts touring the island under the auspices of the Department of Education, Physical and Recreational Branch, that you stated they would be at Saanichton Hall on September 11. The actual hall to be used is the North Saanich Service Club's Hall on Mill's Road in the North Saanich area. In order to avoid confusion may I ask that you print a correction in one of your issues before September 11.

I interviewed Dr. Willis of the Department of Education on this subject, and he approved my asking you to do this.

President of N.S.S. Club, Sidney.

FIRST-AID COURSE

To the Editor—A course of instruction in First Aid, held by the St. John Ambulance Brigade, will begin Friday evening, September 11, at 8 o'clock, in the headquarters of the brigade.

The ladies' section of the brigade will be pleased to welcome any ladies holding St. John certificates in this subject who wish to take their instruction again, or to sit for higher awards. Inquiries will be answered at G.3134.

WANTS "HOT DOGS" DISINFECTED

A few days ago it was stated in The Times that "Hot Dogs" had grown to the abnormal length of fifteen inches. Now that our annual exhibition is close at hand I presume that visitors will be treated to an unusual sickening stench that permeates the atmosphere from the cooking of "Hot Dogs" and onions.

It is to be hoped, however, that the purveyors of this delectable dish will have a little mercy on the general public, and serve same with a very powerful disinfectant spray. Of course, there's no accounting for taste, but I'm sure many of our visitors will agree that the odor from the "Hot Dog" stalls gives anything but a high-class aspect to the fair, and to say the least, "ain't no bloomina' violets."

ALFRED MANSFIELD,

Young people have far more liberty today than they used to have, but there is no need to go to the devil just because you have a latchkey.

PARADISE—ALBERTA STYLE

From The Financial News

Through the Covenants there is a glimpse of the bright Paradise on Earth which Albert has said his party will make of Alberta.

It will, of course, be a paradise with reservations, for already the thrifty people and the institutions investing the money of thrifty people in Alberta are to be left out in the cold. It is to be a Paradise—temporarily—for the debtor, with the creditor left in the purgatory of debt adjustment, interest-removal and restraint of seizure. Why the debtor should command all the sympathy and consideration is not made clear.

Question: If a workman is earning $60 a month and board, what proportion of his salary is garnishable?

Answer: There is an exemption covering wages up to $60 a month, but in the case above, his board which is supplied is part of the wage and has a definite value. On such value being ascertained, that amount would be garnishable.

Aid of 2,000,000
Women Sought
To Fight Disease

Associated Press
Madison, Wis., Sept. 9.—A "women's field army" soon will be mustered from all parts of the United States for a thorough fight against cancer, according to Dr. C. C. Little of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

He announced last night at the International Cancer Institute here that the society was enlisting the aid of more than 2,000,000 members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in America as an integral part of the cancer control programme. They will be enrolled in an organization to be known officially as the Women's Field Army Against Cancer.

Dr. Little said objectives of the army would be to provide opportunities for lectures and exhibits by medical men before lay groups; distribution of information concerning early signs and symptoms of cancer; establishment of personnel and individual contracts with a limited number of families for the purpose of following up such educational work continuously, and the raising of funds to carry on the work.

Esquimalt W.I.—At the Esquimalt Women's Institute meeting held on Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, Mrs. J. P. Hicks gave a report on the provincial conference while Mrs. J. Kelly submitted a report on the successful flower show held in August. The institute will send a hundred-pound sack of sugar to the Queen Alexandra Solarium and members are asked to bear in mind that at the next meeting of the institute there will be a jam shower. The cake plate donated by a member was won by Mrs. A. S. Raymond. The gold medal given by the Esquimalt Women's Institute to the student from the Lamson Street School winning the highest marks in the entrance examination will be presented this year to Robert Stephens, the successful student who also won a scholarship to Brentwood College.

Weddings

DOWN—CUNNINGHAM

At home of officiating clergyman, Rev. E. F. Church, the wedding was solemnized quietly on Saturday of Miss Edith Florence Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Cunningham, and Mr. A. V. Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Pottinger, 427 Powell Street, entertained at a dinner and reception in honor of the couple. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard will take up residence at 1510 Hillside Avenue. The bride was a graduate of the 1932 class of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

CUNNINGHAM—PURDY

Ganges, Sept. 9.—A quiet wedding was held in St. Mark's Church, Central Salt Spring, when Margaret Kate, second daughter of Mrs. Purdy and the late R. Purdy of Ganges, became the wife of Mr. Leonard Guy Cunningham, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cunningham of Salt Spring Island. Rev. C. H. Popham performed the ceremony. The bride entered the church on the arm of her mother, looking charming in her wedding gown of oyster white triple sheer silk, made ankle-length, with full bishop sleeves set into a shirred high neck yoke, the waistline defined with a long ash of white satin ribbon. Her embroidered silk net veil depended from a coronet of orange blossoms, falling at the back to form a short train. She carried a shower bouquet of white and pink chrysanthemums and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Hilary Purdy, as maid of honor, and the two bridesmaids were Miss Olivia Cunningham, sister of the groom, and Miss Mabel Thornycroft of Nanaimo.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham. The afternoon ferry for Victoria, crossing on the night boat to Vancouver, from where they are motoring to Kamloops.

Mrs. Hamber Honored Guest

Government House
Chataleaine at Tea Musicales

For the first time since she became chataleaine at Government House, Mrs. E. W. Hamber was honored by the members of the Women's Canadian Club when they held a tea musicale in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The pleasure afforded the members of the club by having Mrs. Hamber as honorary president was ably voiced by Mrs. S. J. Willis, the president, as she welcomed Mrs. Hamber to the function. Mrs. Hamber graciously acknowledged the honor bestowed and little Miss Priscilla Peables, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Allan Peables, then presented the honored guest with a lovely basket of roses and autumn flowers.

The ballroom was filled with guests when Mrs. Hamber, in a smart black and white gown and large black hat, entered the room, accompanied by Mrs. Willis and the guests invited to the head table, including Mrs. T. D. Pattillo, Mrs. G. M. Weir, Mrs. Gordon McG. Sloan, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. F. M. MacPherson, Mrs. K. C. MacDonald, Mrs. G. S. Pearson, Mrs. H. G. Perry, the Misses Wells Gray, Mrs. David Leeming, Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.E.E. Madam, Macdonald, Fisher (Toronto), Mrs. F. A. McDermid, Mrs. G. C. Spoford, Mrs. P. B. Scullah, Mrs. J. C. F. Pauline, Mrs. Archie Willis, Miss Hosie, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mrs. Jamie Cameron, Mrs. C. C. Warn, Mrs. John Gough, Mrs. Marjorie Watson Goodwin, Miss Nora Jones and Miss Macquinn Daniels. Mrs. Hamber was accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Rice.

The long table was adorned at intervals with low bowls filled with flowers arranged in a color scheme of pink and mauve, while tall branching candelabra held in place lighted pink tapers. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. James Adams, Mrs. T. A. Johnston, Mrs. Charles Conyers and Mrs. A. E. Carmichael.

The pleasure of the afternoon was enhanced by the delightful musical programme rendered, being opened by a two-piano ensemble by Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mrs. C. C. Warn, Mrs. Jamie Cameron and Mrs. John Gough, who played the overture music of Schubert's "Rosemunde," followed by "Viennese Dances," by Schubert. For the vocal part of the programme Mrs. Marjorie Watson Goodwin, soprano, contributed "Lone Wilson's" "Carmen," and "My Heart is a Silent Violin" (Fox), and Miss Nora Jones, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. Bech's rarely heard "Ah, Love But a Day" and "Old Mother Hubbard." Mrs. John Gough accompanied Mrs. Goodwin, and Miss Bech accompanied Mrs. Watson.

In general charge of the arrangements was Mrs. T. A. Johnston, and those responsible for the artistic arrangement of the flowers were Mrs. Annie Adams and Mrs. W. Mayhew. The stage, with its framing of palms and ferns, dahlias and Michaelmas daisies, was another focal point in the beautiful setting.

Astor Diary In Dungeon

Associated Press

Los Angeles, Sept. 9.—Mary Astor's diary, the one of Hollywood, was buried yesterday in a modern dungeon. The two volumes of her Hollywood experiences went into the vaults of the county treasury, deep beneath the ground, surrounded by massive steel walls and protected by an intricate system of photo-electric cells.

Exposition of the diary was one of the terms of the agreement that ended her custody battle with her ex-husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe. Dr. Thorpe had the low-leader in his possession, and was prepared to use it as evidence in an effort to prove the movie star's unfitness for custody of their four-year-old daughter when the struggle was arbitrated.

Factor In Helping Women

Mrs. Alfred Watt
Tells of Organization

"When Women's Institutes first got going, Farmer's Institutes disappeared," Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.A., O.B.E., told the members of the Victoria Women's University Club at a special meeting of the club held in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening when she related to an interested audience, the workings of the international organization of which she is the president—the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

This organization, though formed during the greatest depression in the world, had met with phenomenal success, despite its having functioned for the first three years of its existence without a constitution. Organized at a time when countrywomen had very little influence in world affairs, it had grown through the educational aspects of its meetings to be a tremendous factor in helping women all over the world.

Mrs. Watt described some of the difficulties encountered in the management of such an international organization, that of language proving a problem as at many of the meetings in the central office in London twenty different nationalities would be represented.

Letters from all parts of the world were received at the central office and the answering of these entailed a great amount of work.

The told of the aims of the Countrywomen, the official magazine of the club, which was apparently filling a niche in the homes as it was being read in all parts of the world.

CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON
She told of the great conference held recently in Washington, D.C., at which she had presided over 7,000 women, a number exceeding by over 6,000 the delegates expected to attend the conference. At the end of the conference Mrs. Watt stated there had been a roll call and the delegates were asked to state why they had come to the meeting and in the majority of cases the answer had been: "We thought it had something to do with peace." Others came because they wanted to get in touch with delegates from their former homes in Europe.

The vast throng of women in Washington on this occasion gave some alarm to the senators and congressmen at the Capitol until they ascertained the purpose of their visit.

Mrs. Watt paid tribute to the United States press in its treatment of the reports of the meeting, the affairs of the organization becoming front page news while they were in session.

In the unavoidable absence of Dr. Olga Jardine, the president of the club, H. L. Smith, vice-president, introduced Mrs. Watt, pointing out that Mrs. Watt was a charter member of the club, had been a former president and she also recalled the fact that Mrs. Watt had been the first woman in Canada to obtain a M.A. degree.

INTRODUCTIONS
The introduction to the new members of the club of charter members and former presidents including Mrs. Henry Esau Young, the first president; Mrs. Watt, the second president; Dr. Helen Ryan, the third president; Miss Jeannette Cann, Mrs. E. C. Hart, Dr. Madeline Cleland and Miss Margaret Clay, the only honorary member of the club, was a pleasing part of the meeting's proceedings.

Miss Cann moved the vote of thanks to Mrs. Watt, on behalf of the club, expressing the great pleasure they had received from her illuminating talk as well as that of having such a distinguished charter member in the club. Mrs. Watt was presented with a corsage of sweet peas.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting and the members were given the opportunity of chatting with Mrs. Watt. Mrs. Henry Esau Young and Mrs. Arthur Walsh presided at the tea table.

Preceding the talk by Mrs. Watt, a short business meeting was held at which Miss Scott read the minutes of the last meeting and Miss Elsie the correspondence.

The resignation of Miss Elizabeth Slimming, the treasurer of the club, owing to her departure from Victoria, was accepted with sincere regret and Mrs. Oscar Lucas was appointed at the meeting to fill the office.

Dutch Are Pleased At Wedding

"Jolly Julie's" Husband Will Get $136,000

Associated Press
The Hague, The Netherlands, Sept. 9.—Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Bischoff said in a speech today he would marry Princess Juliana, his fiancée, to the Netherlands throne, within two or three months.

The betrothal of the princess to the prince was announced yesterday and was celebrated in a special broadcast in which both they and Queen Wilhelmina spoke.

The queen, who has ruled the Netherlands for forty-six years, said she fully approved of her daughter's choice, and Juliana expressed happiness.

The engagement, as unexpected as it was joyously received by the populace, was announced yesterday.

The jolly princess is the twenty-seven-year-old daughter of Queen Wilhelmina, and two years older than the prince.

The tall Bernhard—whom his friends call Benno—has a job at present in a German dye trust; but it was said tonight he probably would give up commerce once he became consort to the future queen.

Under a proposed constitutional agreement, the prince would receive 200,000 florins (about $136,000) a year for being prince consort. The sum would be deducted from the funds now appropriated for the reigning Queen Wilhelmina.

Stork Derby Document Mystery

Millar Enjoyed Being Peculiar, Friends Say

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 9. — When Charlie Vance Millar made a will leaving $500,000 to the Toronto mother having the most children in the ten years after his death he took no one into his confidence. Not even his closest friends saw the reasons for the strange document.

It will never be known whether he made the bequest with the genuine wish to help large families or whether he foresaw the race that has been staged for the money and drew strange delight in starting such a contest. He will be dead ten years October 31 when the "baby derby" ends.

The story has been told that he drew the will in an exuberant moment as a joke and intended to "destroy" it later. His friends say not. According to them it was drawn several years before his death. His "eccentricities" were premeditated. He seldom changed his mind.

Another explanation is that Millar was vain and wished to be talked about even after his death. Some of his friends thought his peculiar actions a pose to draw attention to himself. They suggest he made the will as a means of attaining post-mortem notoriety.

AN ENIGMA

The man was something of an enigma, even to those closest to him. He wore the most expensive clothes but wore them in such a sloppy way as to draw comment. When his horse won the King's Plate he refused to go to the stand to receive the trophy. When he was appointed a king's counsel he declined an invitation to appear for his patent.

Some of his friends say this indicates his selfish nature. Others believe he refused to appear at the functions because refusal made him conspicuous and drew to him the notoriety his appearance would not.

Millar was a member of an influential law firm and built up a fortune of $2,000,000 through shrewd investment of his fees. He was a poor boy who worked his way through the University of Toronto to a law degree.

Toronto knew him as a clubman, something of a humorist and as the owner of a stable of horses which he raced on the tracks. He died when prohibition was in force in Ontario and agitation against horse racing at its height.

His feelings on these subjects were indicated in his will. He left several churches of various denominations, brewery shares and stock in the Ontario Jockey Club. Most of them accepted the shares and gave the proceeds to charity.

HOW TO COOK LAMB

TIME TABLE FOR COOKING LAMB

Leg, roasted—15 minutes per pound.
Chops, broiled—8 to 10 minutes per pound.

Loin, roasted—8 to 10 minutes per pound.
Shoulder, roasted—15 minutes per pound.

Lamb, on the whole, has a delightfully mild flavor, lending pleasing variety to the daily menu. It is quite different in flavor from beef and pork, and left-overs are especially easy to use in many tasty combinations. Your family will be enthusiastic about lamb.

Spiced Roast Lamb

Use any roasting cut of lamb; rub it well with salt and pepper, and place it in a roaster with 6 cloves, 12 whole allspice, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar, 2-3 cup vinegar, and 1-3 cup water. Cover the roaster, and roast the meat in moderate oven (350 degrees) after searing it. Baste often; add water as it cooks away. Make a gravy from the liquid left in the pan.

Boneless Lamb Roll Roast

The forequarter of lamb may be easily boned and made into a compact roll. If you will watch your butcher do it several times, you can learn to do it yourself very easily. The trick is to roll it tightly and cord it well. If the whole forequarter makes too large a roast for your family, just the shoulder of lamb may be used, which will make a piece weighing between four and five pounds.

The layers of soft white fat in the forequarter cuts make a juicy and tender roast, which is just as good when cold as when hot. Besides, the left-overs may be used advantageously in many ways.

Roast Lamb Roll

Place a boneless lamb roll in a roasting pan, uncovered, in a hot oven (450 degrees) and sear it fifteen minutes, turning once during that time. Lower heat to 350 degrees. Cover the roasting pan, and roast the meat about fifteen minutes to the pound. Season after the first half hour of cooking.

Lamb Breast and Shank for Roasting

While a good many people know from experience that lamb breast makes marvelous lamb stew, fewer are aware of its possibilities as a roast. It is similar to short ribs of beef, and roasts quickly and easily. Since it is the most inexpensive to start with, and so tasty, too, it will readily find a regular place in your menu.

Roasted Lamb Breast

Dredge the meat with flour, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place in a roasting pan with 1/4 cup hot water. Sear in hot oven (450 degrees) for ten minutes, lower fire to 400 degrees, and roast the meat an hour longer.

Lamb Leg Roast

One of the roasts of lamb to be enjoyed occasionally along with the others is the time-honored "leg o' lamb." To be just right, leg of lamb should be roasted so that, when cut, the meat will be very slightly tinted with pink—that is, the juice is a bit rosy. Over-cooking lamb makes it dry and less palatable. It will take about 15 minutes to the pound to make it most acceptable.

Roast Leg of Lamb

Place the lamb in uncovered roaster in hot oven (450 degrees) and sear for 15 minutes, turning once. Cover and roast until tender, allowing 15 minutes to the pound, in moderate oven (350 degrees).

Lamb Shoulder Roast

Lamb shoulder is roasted with the bone in as well as boned and rolled. If the whole shoulder seems a bit too large for your family, you can cut two or three very meaty chops from either the rib or shank side of the roast.

One of the secrets of good lamb cooking is to remove the fat, or outer skin covering, which is quite tough and often contains some oil from the wool.

Roast Lamb Aramid

Roast the shoulder of lamb, allowing 15 minutes per pound, in moderate oven (350 degrees) after searing it first in hot oven (450 degrees). Open a can of baked beans, prepared with tomato sauce, and put them into a baking dish with a sauce of 1/4 cup stewed strained tomatoes, 1 cup water, 3 canned pimientos chopped fine, 1 finely chopped onion, 1 clove of garlic, and 3 tablespoons butter. Before adding the sauce to the beans, cook the ingredients together five minutes. Bake the beans, with the sauce over them, while the lamb is roasting, and serve with it.

Shoulder Chops, Bavaria

Remove bones from shoulder chops, place the chopped meat on rounds of pierce-cut dough rolled thin. Season the meat with salt, pepper, onion juice, and celery salt. Cover the meat with another round of dough, pinch the edges of the two pieces together outside the margin of the meat, to make into small tarts. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 40 minutes. Serve with a cube of jelly in the centre of each, on top.

Stuffed Shoulder Chops

Remove the dealer cut the chops from the round bone side of the shoulder. Remove the bone from each chop, by cutting around it with a sharp-pointed knife.

Mix up a small amount of bread dressing as for poultry, season it with chopped cooked premium bacon, and fill the cavities in the chops.

Broil the chops for about 15 minutes, turning once. Dot them with butter, and season with salt and pepper. Serve with mint jelly cut in cubes and scattered on the platter.

The shoulder, or chuck, of lamb, is a good piece of meat to buy. It has the best flavor of any cut; there is very little bone, and that little may be boned out, and the meat tied into a compact roll; it is juicy, tender and sweet. Chops may be cut from the shoulder which will have the loin for flavor and tenderness. These chops contain much more meat per pound than either the loin or rib chops, and are less expensive.

The chuck averages about 4 or 5 pounds—just enough to have for a hot roast one day, with some left over for luncheon the next day.

Roast Shoulder of Lamb

Put the lamb in a roasting pan, place it, uncovered, in a hot oven. When the surface is seared, turn the lamb, and sear the other side. Salt it, add 1/4 cup water, and lay two strips of bacon over the top. Cover the pan, and roast the lamb in a medium oven about 1 1/2 hours.

Lamb neck is rich in those meat substances called "extractives" that are so appetizing and stimulating, and impart such a delightful flavor to stews, soups, and braised dishes.

The four or five attractive slices which may be cut from it are ideal for casserole preparation. Even if they are stewed the pieces cut in this way look better than if just cut up in any way.

Neck Pot Roast

Buy about four inches of lamb neck. Brown 1 finely cut onion, 1 cup tomatoes, and 2 tablespoons bacon fat together. Add the piece of lamb, seared well on both sides. Cook in an iron pan or roasting pan until the meat is tender. Will take about 15 minutes to the pound of meat.

Lamb Croquettes

One and three-quarter cups cooked lamb from neck, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 2 teaspoons fat.

Grind lamb, mix with other ingredients and moisten with white sauce. Mould into cone-shaped croquettes. Roll in bread crumbs, egg, and fry in hot deep fat.

Australian Visitors At Fair

Premier's Wife and Daughters at Toronto Exhibition

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 9. — Patchwork quilts and popcorn intrigued visitors from Australia at the Canadian National Exhibition when Mrs. B. S. B. Stevens, wife of the Premier of New South Wales, and her young son, Kenneth, and two daughters, Miss Gwendoline and Miss Loma, hurried about to see all they could during their first day in Canada.

Mrs. Stevens made arrangements to have one of the quilts on exhibit in the Women's Building sent home to Sydney for her elder daughter, Gwendoline, who is to be married on her return home, and who plans to furnish her future home in colonial style. She spent several minutes watching the old-fashioned quilting bee in the Women's Building.

On the way through the Manufacturers' Building they stopped, fascinated, at the popping corn stand and tasted for the first time this popular treat, pronouncing it good.

Miss Gwendoline Stevens, who is engaged as a psychologist in connection with one of the women's hospitals in Sydney, was much interested in the occupational therapy and children's hospital exhibit.

Problem children are the chief concern of these clinics, and Miss Stevens said their condition is often corrected by adjustment of their home condition, which is studied by both social welfare workers and psychologists. In more complex cases the child is passed on to a psychiatrist for an intelligence quotient test and then recommended for the type of training for which he is mentally and physically fitted, Miss Stevens explained.

Mrs. Stevens, who also takes an active interest in social welfare, is one of the leaders of a movement known as "Bush nursing." It means that, through private enterprise, women in the remotest parts of the country have the benefit of nursing service and health advice at all times, she told her interviewer, as the party passed from the Australian exhibit in the Government Building to the Flower Building which brought forth fresh bursts of admiration for things Canadian.

Society

Miss Jessie Griffin, Mowat Street, has returned to her home in Victoria from visiting with Mr. and Mrs. H. Levick, Port Angeles.

Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Bishop of Alberta, is traveling in northern Alberta on a confidential trip for Archbishop O'Leary of Edmonton, who has been unwell. Bishop MacDonald is expected to return to his Victoria residence about September 18.

Mr. Ira Dilworth, formerly principal of the Victoria High School, is spending a few days in the city. He came over from Vancouver on the night boat. Mr. Dilworth left here two years ago to accept the position of associate professor of English in the University of British Columbia. During his absence he gave the course in Victorian poetry at the university summer session, and in addition a special course of lectures on music appreciation. The latter course was a new venture in summer school curriculum. Several of the British Columbia students were analyzed with illustrations from photographic records. After the close of the summer session, late in August, Mr. Dilworth went to San Francisco. He is now renewing old acquaintances in Victoria before returning to his work at the university. Before leaving here he was conductor of the Victoria Ladies' Choir for several years. He now leads the Bach Choir in Vancouver.

On Sunday morning, at St. Aidan's, Sunday school, Miss Betty McPherson was presented with a parting gift on behalf of the staff and pupils. Miss McPherson has been a teacher in this Sunday school for seven years.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN, eighteen and pretty, is snubbed by wealthy SYLVIA DENNIS. Humiliated, Boots accepts the attentions of RUSSELL, handsome swimming instructor, and impulsively elopes with him.

Almost immediately she realizes the marriage is a mistake. Boots gets a job in Miami and leaves, promising to send for her. He does not write. Months pass and then comes word that Russ has been killed in a motor boat accident.

Boots gets a job in a department store. She is lonely until she meets DENIS FENWAY, young author. He introduces her to some of his friends, including beautiful KAY CHILTING.

On Sunday he appears unexpectedly and takes Boots to visit cousin of his at Easthampton. Boots is received cordially and has a pleasant time until Kay appears and takes possession of Boots. Hurt and jealous, Boots insists on seeing Russ before she leaves.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

It was a burning morning. During the night the water carts had sprinkled the dusty streets and for a brief space during the early hours freshness prevailed. By half past nine the heat was unendurable. Kay seemed a copper bowl inverted over the face of the earth.

Nothing, however, could keep the crowds from the sale counters at Lacy's. They pressed in—women in thin silks; women in cheap cottons, the seams straining under their bulging arms; women with expensive handbags and clean gloves; women with neither and with parcels wrapped in cellophane paper, tied with thin, unreliable strings. Boots hated them all today with a deadly hatred. It was agony to be courteous, to force interest into one's dying tones.

Would the morning never end? The humid air was like a tangible thing, pressing against her chest, stifling her. Once a girl fainting, down a crowded aisle, and the other clerks peered at each other with hurried eyes as a space was cleared for the sufferer's passing. There would be "heat wave" headlines in the papers again tonight. In the slums firemen would open the hydrants to gush bright streams of water into the streets where the "ureling might" play.

Boots saw the hands of her watch crawl around to her "lunch period" with a passionate sensation of gratitude. She would have leaped back to her room to bathe her face and hands.

As she went to her locker the head of the department beckoned to her. In the doorway of a glassed and partitioned cubicle, Miss Houghton looked stern, but then that was her habitual expression. Boots was conscious of a lift of apprehension in her heart.

"Someone is calling you on the telephone," Mrs. Lund said, the older woman in a perfectly expressionless voice which, however, managed to convey the impression of displeasure. "You know employees are not supposed to have calls within hours, but I will make an exception."

"You were going to call me," Denis said.

"I forgot."

She hadn't. Of course, she hadn't. But after yesterday—had he really thought she would telephone him this morning? What did the man think she was made of?

"Well, here's the layout," Denis went on. "You're to see Masterston this afternoon—about four. Can you get off?"

Miss Houghton was within hearing. Boots must not give herself away. "I don't know. Not unless it's most awfully important."

"The thing is practically sewed up. He just wants to see you. He's in the Mardell Building. Fifty-seventh Street. Got that?"

"Yes, I've got it."

"Well, be there like a good girl. Let me know what happens."

She stood staring at the instrument in her hand like a dazed creature.

"You understand this is not creating a precedent, Mrs. Lund," Miss Houghton purred. "It's most irregular..."

"I know, and thanks so much," Boots drifted away. She would have to get out—somewhere—at four o'clock.

The early afternoon hours wheeled by. "If I go," Boots thought, "and nothing comes of it, I'll lose my job here; I'll be done for." She was fatalistic about that job. It had been a life-saver to her.

On the other hand Masterston's book shop would open up a new life. Everything was optimistic but it was absurd to say it was "all sewed up" when Masterston hadn't even talked to her.

At half past three Boots walked over to Mr. Bliss who was signing a salesbook with a flourish. Her heart was thudding painfully.

He looked wretched; even his white carnation drooped.

"I'm feeling ill, Mr. Bliss," it was true. Nervousness had given her a feeling of nausea and her head ached.

"Well, well..." He paused impatiently, tapping his pointed pencil against the counter. "You may go then, but you'll be docked for this. It's been a terrible day. Girls dropping like flies..."

He turned his back upon her and forgot her and after a hurried word to Miss Apple she fled.

It had been so easy, her head still swam with the surprise of it. She found herself out on the torrid pavement among the jostling crowds. It was a pity she hadn't time to refresh herself but she would have to hurry now to make the appointment on time. How like Denis's arrogance to make a four o'clock appointment for a meeting among the jostling crowds. It would be her to keep it.

"He thinks he can run the whole world. I hate him," she thought, burning with resentment. No, she would not be grateful to him for giving her this opportunity. It was just part of his pride and arrogance. He wanted to show everyone how omniscient he was and if he could help her to a job it satisfied his conceit. Boots told herself ungratefully.

The lobby of the big office building was cool, almost empty. She stepped into a car with intricate bronze grilles, her heart aching with doubt. Maybe Mr. Masterston would be gone... maybe he would not see her, after all...

A blond girl with sculptured curls and mascaraed lashes took her name indolently and plugged in two black rubber knobs at the switchboard.

"Mrs. Lund, to see Mr. Masterston. All right."

She swept the lashes in Boots's direction. "Room 421," she directed. "His name is on the door."

Boots pushed the swinging mahogany door inward and looked about her interestedly. A dozen—two dozen girls lifted curious eyes from typewriter and billhead as she passed.

This big, orderly room with its shaded windows, its dark-green composition floor on which footsteps fell softly, seemed dim and cool in the burning heat of the afternoon. Everywhere was order. Big desks with neat piles of papers clipped and weighted with clear glass squares; shining typewriters; young women with shining waved hair, crisp blouses, powdered noses. Boots had a dazed impression of almost superhuman tidiness. She was to learn later that Burton Masterston's passion was order and cleanliness and that he transmitted this to his staff.

Meantime the effect was to make her conscious of her own slightly crumpled dark frock. The collar had been fresh that morning but hours in the confusion and heat of Lacy's had stolen its virgin crispness. If only she had had time to go home and change...

She knocked at 421. Burton Masterston, Vice-president...

The big man at the mammoth desk was dark-browed, frowning. He swung his chair about to face her, speaking rapidly into the telephone the while.

"He was to deliver on the first," when Masterston hadn't even talked to her.

Urged to Build Happier Canada

Labor Congress Delegates at Montreal Hear Speeches; Pass Resolutions

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Sept. 9.—Ability of Canadian workers to bring about social progress, economic security and economic freedom by constitutional means was confidently asserted by leaders of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada which today continued its annual convention here.

This thought was stressed on the convention's opening day yesterday in the report of the executive council and in speeches by P. M. Draper of Ottawa, president, and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, who made a hurried trip from Ottawa to attend his first labor convention as a minister.

EXECUTIVE REPORT

"It is only by union of all those who toil that we can build a saner and happier Canada," the executives reported. "Our potential powers are practically limitless if we will but unite on a common program and proceed with the social and economic vision and clarity of purpose which is ours for the taking."

"Three fundamental evils, the development of industrial dictatorship, the insufficiency of wages to provide the basis for a decent standard of living and unemployment are all too prevalent."

To cope effectively with this cancer in our industrial life the labor movement should learn to do for itself rather than learn too much on governments. "When work people feel that government does everything for them their ability to organize is greatly reduced. For that reason labor must continue to preserve the militancy of the movement if it is to win the larger social goal toward which it is aiming."

CONSTITUTIONAL METHODS

By intelligent use of the ballot and by strengthening trade union organizations economic freedom could be won without firing a shot, Mr. Draper said. He predicted the congress would continue its past policy of constructive, constitutional progress and steer clear of propaganda of a revolutionary or wrecking character.

CRITICISM WELCOMED

Mr. Rogers said close co-operation between government and organized labor was highly desirable in a democratic state. In some countries organized labor had lost its independence, but in Canada the government welcomed constructive criticism. If democracy were to be maintained, however, legislation would have to be enacted which would bring the people a greater degree of economic security. Organized labor by its constructive efforts could do much to assist in bringing this about.

MANY RESOLUTIONS

After Mr. Draper's speech the convention got down to business on 205 resolutions forwarded by local and affiliated bodies.

Resolutions passed yesterday dealt with banking, constitutional amendments, minimum wages and other topics.

An increase in the currency issue to make it more in keeping with the "wealth and resources of our country developed and otherwise" was urged in a resolution passed. The motion said the government should take complete ownership of the central bank in order to carry out this policy.

B.N.A. ACT CHANGES

Amendments to the British North America Act were demanded in another resolution passed. The act was said to be obsolete and to have outlived its usefulness. "The executive of the congress was instructed to ask federal government to have the law amended to 'make the government supreme.'" The resolution said legislation for the benefit of the people had from time to time been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Barbers' Code Now in Toronto

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 9.—The 15-cent haircut will soon be a thing of the past in Toronto, replaced by a 40-cent tonorial trim. The day of the 40-cent haircut was ushered in here yesterday when the Ontario government announced the sanctioning of a barbers' code for the Toronto area.

The pact sets wages for all barbers and these wages are fixed on a standard charge of 40 cents for a haircut.

NEW LIGHT ON GAS POISONING

By Science Service

Boston, Sept. 9.—Carbon monoxide poisoning almost never causes mental or nervous illness, Dr. Cecil K. Drinker, dean of the Harvard School of Public Health, told public health experts at a symposium held here as part of the Harvard Tercentenary celebration.

This is contrary to the general medical and legal opinion, but Dr. Drinker presented figures from a ten-year experience in New York City to prove his point. "Between 1925 and 1934 there were 21,000 cases of carbon monoxide poisoning in that city. Of these only thirty-nine persons subsequently showed signs of mental or nervous derangement."

"Following carbon monoxide poisoning a person either dies or gets wholly well, except in very rare instances," Dr. Drinker said.

If carbon monoxide poisoning resulted in mental or nervous illness the New York mental-disease hospitals would be filled with such patients, Dr. Drinker commented, but this is not the case. About 1,500 carbon monoxide deaths occur yearly throughout the United States. About two-thirds of these are probably suicides, though there are no accurate figures on this point.

Improved methods of treatment reduced the yearly carbon monoxide deaths in New York City from 600 to 200 within the last ten years.

King Victor Emmanuel May Visit Ethiopia

Associated Press

Rome, Sept. 9.—The prospect Premier Mussolini and the King-Emperor Victor Emmanuel soon will visit their new African possessions arose when it was announced yesterday the Diletti-Addis Ababa Road, a way in Ethiopia had ordered special cars built for them and for Victor Emmanuel and his family.

Accident Report On Hired Autos

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 9.—Hire and drive automobiles this year, up to August 31, were involved in fifteen accidents, resulting in one death and injuries to six persons, the civic police and traffic committee was told yesterday.

The statistics were brought up at the request of the committee in its demands that all U-drive vehicles be insured for public liability and property damage.

A special meeting of the committee will be held soon to discuss the question further.

LANGFORD

Guest Day was observed by the members of the Langford Tennis Club on Labor Day, visitors from Bamerton, Metchoin, Esquimalt and Victoria being present.

This Bin Will Hold Over Two Tons of Stoker Coal.

JOHN HAS ADDED A PLAYROOM, AND SAVED MONEY, TOO

A hammer, some nails, boards cut to size... the simplest carpentry... and John has transformed the basement into a playroom. Anyone can build a stout coal bin that will keep the basement clean and save steps in stoking, whether the furnace is automatic or hand fed. The ideal combination—for heat, economy and ease of operation—is a coal stoker fed with NANAIMO-WELLINGTON or COMOX COAL. This gives practical perfection in home heating and comfort. No worry, no fuss, no dirt—and lots of warmth.

GET RID OF TWO SUITS

Declarer Cross-ruffs His Side Cards and Dummy's, Then Forces Opponent to Play Into Tenace

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

When the opening leader holds three kings, including the king of trump, all guarded over the declarer, who has reached a rather chagrin, the defending player cannot be blamed for looking to a favorable outcome of the hand with undiluted confidence. This is enhanced when he sees the dummy with only one ace.

It is then, perhaps, the irony of fate for the player to find that his kings have all failed to live up to their royal training. One of them was lost on the opening lead, but there remained the queen, jack, and 10, in the same suit to back it up.

Today's hand is an example of the type of play which I discussed recently, and shows again how the strength of the open and closed hands can be increased by the simple process of suit-elimination to create a situation in which a favorable lead can be forced.

In explanation of the bidding, North felt that, when he had only two hearts in response to his partner's opening bid, he was justified in showing the club ace after the forcing bid that his partner made in

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at six spades. Apparently, he can count only 11 tricks. But he can find a way to develop the 12th trick, if he looks long enough. Try it.

another suit, and South, now hoping more than ever for the spade opening, went right up to six hearts.

Despite North's club bid, West opened the club king. South won with the ace and led a low heart. When East showed out, declarer knew he had to lose a trick in that suit. He won with the ace. Then he cashed the ace and king of diamonds, led a small diamond and ruffed. A low club was led from dummy and ruffed by declarer.

South now knew his contract could not fail. He led his last diamond and ruffed in dummy. A low club was led and ruffed by declarer. Now a trump was played and West was forced to lead, after winning the trick.

He had the club queen, and the K-J-2 of spades; dummy held the nine of trump and three spades, while declarer held the queen and jack of trump and the ace and queen of spades.

Any lead was hopeless, and the contract was made.

RURAL HIGH SCHOOL AREA

Salt Spring Districts Combined to Give Better Accommodation

Ganges, Sept. 9.—Five of the eight rural districts of Salt Spring Island have combined to form a rural high school area and includes the Ganges-Vesuvius high school, which will in future be known as "Salt Spring Island High School."

The districts of the newly-formed area are Burgoyne, The Divide, Ganges, Vesuvius and North Vesuvius. The trustees are: G. E. Akerman, Burgoyne; William Crawford, The Divide; Edwin Parsons, Ganges; Gavin C. Mount, Vesuvius, and H. L. Bowden, North Vesuvius.

Enrollment for the current year now stands at forty-three. This number is considered too large for one teacher and arrangements are being made to prepare another room and to engage the services of an assistant teacher. It is the hope of the trustees to have the new arrangement working by October 1.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

September 9, 1911

(From The Times Files)
The Zeppelin dirigible balloon Schwanen, with six passengers on board, today arrived at Berlin, thereby completing its 350-mile journey from Baden-Baden.

Dr. C. J. Fagan, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, returned yesterday from a visit to the lower mainland cities where he has been making an investigation into the purity of the milk supply.

Vancouver Island wireless stations have on several occasions in the past established notable records for long distance, but last night every former record was shattered when the operator at Estevan got into communication with the Osakan Shoen Kaisha liner Canada Maru, 1,700 miles from the west coast station.

Coming across the Pacific with the largest shipment of hemp that has ever left Manila, and with every inch of space in her holds taken, the Wier liner Orteric reached the outer wharf this morning after a run of 14 days 10 hours from Yokohama.

Robert A. Renwick, Deputy Minister of Lands, and Mrs. Renwick are visiting in Prince Rupert. Mr. and Mrs. Blizard left yesterday on a visit to New York. Mrs. McBride, New Westminster, mother of the Premier, Miss McBride, his sister, and two of his daughters have returned from Prince Rupert, where they spent a holiday.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

FIRST TO FLY THE CHANNEL

The Lindbergh of pioneer aviation, Louis Bleriot, died recently in Paris, aged sixty-four. Twenty-seven years ago, this son of a French manufacturer, already a wealthy engineer and inventor, took the throttle in a crate-like machine that few would dare fly today, and crossed the English channel from Calais to Dover. It was a feat as daring and as historic in 1909 as was Lindbergh's lone crossing of the Atlantic in 1927.

Bleriot started building and flying airplanes in 1906. First by short hops, then by longer cross-country flights, he distinguished himself in Europe as equally as did the Wright brothers in America. Then, on July 25, 1909, with a French destroyer assigned to "pace" him, he left Calais, outdistanced the warship, and reached Dover, England, a distance of 29.5 miles, in thirty-eight minutes.

In 1934, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of this pioneering feat, France issued the stamp shown below. It pictures Bleriot's plane crossing the English channel.

Nine $1 Sky-riders Hurtled From Clouds to Flaming Death

A "million-dollar thrill for a one-dollar bill"—a nocturnal air-taxi ride over a county fairgrounds at Pittsburgh, Pa.—became a trip of tragedy for eight passengers and the pilot when the plane dived from an altitude of 1,000 feet and was devoured by gasoline-fed flames. The grisly scene above—the removal of bodies charred beyond recognition from the fire-blackened wreckage—was witnessed by scores of persons who had been waiting to take "the next ride" in the plane. Only one passenger had the presence of mind to leap free of the plane as it fell and before an explosion started a swiftly-spreading fire.

CANADIAN NICKEL in the Home

Driller at work in the International Nickel Company's Frood Mine near Sudbury, Ontario

Blasted from the SUDBURY NICKEL MINES comes this Silvery Tub for your New Washer

THE RATTLE OF HIS DRILL reverberates through the timbered chamber in the Frood Mine half a mile beneath the earth's surface. Drill after drill bites into the ore wall. Then, as he and a thousand other wage-earners wend their way to the hoist which lifts them above this great mineral store-room, at the end of the shift, the charges are fired and avalanches of broken ore tumble to the floors of the various stopes.

Ten thousand tons of ore are frequently raised in a single day from the Sudbury Nickel mines. This ore when smelted, refined and distributed to this and other lands for use in industry and homes, brings a constant stream of new wealth to Canada.

The towns of Sudbury and Port Colborne prosper because the scores of new uses for Nickel developed by International Nickel's research and sales departments keep the mines, smelters and refineries operating at capacity. Nor is this prosperity confined to Sudbury and Port Colborne. A thousand factories in all parts of Canada find a steady market in the great Nickel industry for machinery, equipment, supplies, food, clothing, boots and shoes, timber and practically every item of commerce. Railroads derive an immense amount of freight from Canada's Nickel mines. And the products made from Nickel and Monel Metal bring efficiency and economy in every walk of life. Leading makers of washing machines are using Monel Metal tubs on their finest models. These silvery tubs are solid metal, will not rust, nor chip, nor crack and are uncorroded by soaps and bleaching solutions.

For enduring beauty in your sink, range top or washing machine tub, there is no finer material than Monel Metal—from Canadian mines.

Write for your free copy of "The Story of Nickel" an interesting booklet dealing with the history and development of Nickel.

Staff Changes Are Announced

Three New Teachers, in Addition to New Principal, at St. Louis College

Several changes have been made in the staff of St. Louis College this fall. In addition to the new principal there are three other changes. These include Brother J. G. O'Donnell of Holy Cross School, St. John's, Newfoundland, and graduate of the Christian Brothers' Schools in Seattle. He replaces Brother W. L. Rice, who has been transferred to Newfoundland. Brother P. B. Whalen, graduate of Vancouver College and late of All Hallows Institute, New York City, comes to replace Brother M. D. Cunningham, who has returned to Vancouver after a year's absence. Brother J. B. Ryan of Power Memorial Academy, New York City, replaces Brother D. R. O'Connell. Brother E. A. English, who has been associated with St. Louis College for the past ten years, remains as vice-principal and director of athletics. Brother O'Donnell and McCarthy also remain.

During the past week the entire body was assembled in the auditorium to hear an address from the new principal. At this assembly the importance of close application to study was stressed, and an outline was given of the year's activities. Much interest was evoked in English rugby and gymnastics. Two new activities at St. Louis College this year. On Friday afternoon the English rugby enthusiasts met their new coach, Brother Whalen, who learned the games as a student at Vancouver

Boswell Scores Surprise Victory In St. Leger Stakes

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

UNTIL THE MOVE to Dominion-wide we would be foolish to even entertain the idea. That was the answer given today by Jack Taylor, president of the Victoria and District Basketball League, in reply to reports from Vancouver to the effect that the British Columbia Basketball Association intends to sponsor a move to break away from the Amateur Athletic Union. "We have too much to lose in Victoria, and anyway, we can stand on our own feet and get along quite nicely without Vancouver," Taylor said.

"It appears that the officials in charge of basketball in Vancouver want to operate along the same lines as they do in their senior basketball," Taylor said. "That is not good enough for the Victoria teams and until the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association is ready to break the articles of alliance with the Amateur Union the Victoria League will continue to affiliate. If the Vancouver, up-Island and Interior clubs break away, as it is rumored, the local clubs will play for British Columbia and Canadian championships as in previous seasons. We can get all the competition we want from Seattle clubs, who are all affiliated with the A.A.U. As far as gate is concerned, Victoria has always been able to outdraw Vancouver."

Writing in his column in The Vancouver Province, Bill Forst had the following to say about the proposed break:

"Well, it appears the lid is definitely off at last. Basketball is having no more truck with the A.A.U. At least they won't have it if they pass a motion scheduled to come up for consideration at the annual meeting of the provincial association this month. And there is every indication the motion will be passed. The hoopsters are fed up with the monkeyshines of the simon purists. The reorganization meeting of the Inter-city League at V.A.C. Thursday declared strictly against the A.A.U. The interior of B.C. is solidly behind the move to break away and Upper Vancouver Island is also said to be in sympathy. Only opposition, according to Ken Walton, B.C. basketball secretary, is expected from Victoria, stronghold of the A.A.U. and home of the Dominions, former Canadian hoop champions."

"This move of the B.C. eagles will probably have a far-flung effect. If the Canadian Basketball Association does not break away from the A.A.U. it will mean discontinuation of Dominion playdowns and will mean basketballers here will not be able to participate in track and field and swimming, but it will also mean that they may play basketball, softball and Canadian football to their hearts' content. These sports are also being outlawed by the A.A.U. And they may play soccer and rugby, sports the A.A.U. for some unaccountable reason, does not touch. In these games amateurs and 'professionals' may mingle freely with no danger of infection for the former. Why can it not be so in all games? Isn't 'amateurism' for all time?"

"Surely the A.A.U. old boys know by now there is no such thing as an amateur unless the athlete is truly an amateur at heart. 'Carrying the Badge of Purity,' an amateur card, doesn't make one an amateur, because if a man is so inclined the opportunity to pick up 'expense money' for value received looms on every hand. By all means encourage amateurism. But let the real amateur improve himself by competing with or against professionals. No harm can come of it."

"The Inter-city Basketball League's ruling against A.A.U. affiliation will lift the ban on many of our athletes who have been outlawed from hoop activities through playing softball or basketball. Most of the city's leading basketballers, especially in the women's division, play softball. All would have been forced to sit on the sidelines this year. Now they can be active winter and summer without fearing the bogey of suspension. The league will take steps, however, to warn all players that if they wish to participate in track and field or swimming they should not play basketball."

Forst paints somewhat of a rosy picture but there is another side. He makes no mention of, just think what would have happened this year if the B.C. basketball teams had not been affiliated with the A.A.U. Four

U.S.-owned Colt Closes Fast To Capture Classic

William Woodward's Victor Is 20 to 1 Shot; Fearless Fox Second

Rhodes Scholar Fails to Place

Canadian Press
Doncaster, Eng., Sept. 9.—William Woodward's Boswell, a rank outsider, today won the St. Leger Stakes, the final classic of the season, over the one and one-third-mile distance. A. G. Smith's Fearless Fox was second and the Aga Khan's Mahmoud third.

Pat Beasley had the mount on the winner which started at odds of 20 to 1. Fearless Fox was quoted at 100 to 6 and Mahmoud at 5 to 1. The American-owned Boswell is a brown three-year-old colt by Bosworth-Flying Gal II. The favorite in advance betting, Lord Astor's Rhodes Scholar, was an also ran in the field of thirteen. Lord Astor's other entry, Plaster Cast, was scratched shortly before post time.

LARGE CROWD
Boswell's victory surprised a large crowd which thronged the track to watch the running of the senior classic for three-year-olds, first run in 1776.

Boswell finished three-quarters of a length in front of Fearless Fox with Mahmoud another three lengths back. Fearless Fox, ridden by E. Smith, is a brown colt by Foxlaw-Motley Adair. Mahmoud, a grey colt, is by Blenheim-Mah Mahal. Charles Swirke, who rode the Aga Khan's Bahram to victory in the St. Leger last year, rode Mahmoud, winner this year of the Derby.

The race was worth £12,535 (about $62,675) of which £10,584 (about $52,770) went to the winner. Boswell's time was 3 minutes 8 2/5 seconds.

Boswell went out in front at the start, followed by Mahmoud, Haulfryn, Esquemeing, Fearless Fox and His Grace, with Rhodes Scholar last. At the half mile Esquemeing led, followed by Foxfield, Pizarro, Boswell and Fearless Fox.

The halfway leaders were Pizarro, Foxfield, Fearless Fox, Boswell and Raeburn, with His Grace last. Entering the straight, Pizarro still led, with Fearless Fox, Boswell and Mahmoud close. Below the distance Boswell was slightly in front and following were Fearless Fox, Mahmoud, Thankerton and Magnet.

GIANTS TAKE GRID BATTLE

New York Professional Team Defeats College All-stars 12 to 2

New York, Sept. 9.—Dale Burnett, former pride of the Kansas prairies, and big Ed Danowski, who used to carry the mail for Fordham, have taken care of the college-professional football argument for 1936.

With their New York Giant mates opening the door for them, the two flashy backfield hands applied the clincher to the pro side of the argument before 30,555 fans at the Polo Grounds yesterday evening by defeating the college all-stars, 12 to 2, the largest margin of triumph since the college-pro series started two years ago.

DEER CUP AT STAKE AGAIN

Island Hunters Will Compete For Sylvester U-Drive Trophy

For the third year Victoria and Island sportsmen will compete this winter for the handsome Sylvester U-Drive Trophy, awarded to the hunter bringing down the largest buck deer on Vancouver Island. With the deer season opening on Saturday Bill Sylvester, donor of the big silver cup, today announced plans had been completed for this year's competition.

Inaugurated two years ago the "biggest deer competition" has proven popular. Last year over 100 fine animals were weighed in with the winner being E. Prouteau, Chemainus, with a buck that tipped the scales at 165 pounds. This set a new high mark for the event and no doubt it will be a long time before a bigger one is brought in.

In second-place last season were J. French and P. Lukovich, Shawinigan Lake, with a 155-pounder, while Alex Murray, Colwood, took the third prize with a buck weighing 147 pounds. Sylvester stated that he will again offer four prizes. To the winner will go the big trophy along with a replica which will become the permanent possession of the victor. The main cup is held for one year. Second and third awards will be made while there will be a consolation prize for which all hunters, except the first three prize winners, will be eligible.

Any hunter on the island is eligible for the competition but the deer must be weighed in at the Sylvester U-Drive, Douglas Street. An official weigher will be on hand and the big scales located there make the weighing in a simple matter.

SHAKEUP IN BOSTON SOX

Manager Joe Cronin Switches Players; Jimmy Foxx Goes to Outfield

Boston, Sept. 9.—A drastic shakeup in the Boston Red Sox lineup, announced by manager Joe Cronin before yesterday's exhibition game in Canton, O., will send Jimmy Foxx from first base to left field, Bill Werber to second base and install Fabian Gaffke, a new Minneapolis purchase, as the regular right fielder. Cronin said the changes would be made today when the Sox open a two-game series in Chicago.

Babe Dahlgren, who has been recalled from Syracuse, will start at first base. Eric McNair will continue at shortstop and Cronin at third base. Rog Cramer will also remain in centre field. "I am not dissatisfied with Foxx's play at first base," Cronin explained. "Jimmy has been playing a high grade of defensive baseball during the last two weeks. But Dahlgren has been recalled from Syracuse because he is worthy of another chance to prove himself a big leaguer. We want to give him every opportunity."

LOCAL GOLF PLAYERS WIN

Victoria Men and Women Advance in Annual Tournament at Jasper

Jasper Park Lodge, Alta., Sept. 9.—Low scoring and close play featured the first day of flight matches for the Totem Pole golf championship here yesterday. One of the feature games was between B. P. Powell, Vancouver, who won the qualifying medal, and "Rusty" McLean, Edmonton, who carried the medalist to the nineteenth hole before Powell finally won. McLean shot a 75 with Powell only a stroke more. Powell took the nineteenth hole with a par four when McLean was across the green with his approach.

Another feature of the day was the elimination from the championship flight of Rodney Chadwick, Winnipeg, who was runner-up to the winner last year. R. E. Lang, Seattle, played par golf to win the match.

Leading Thoroughbreds Will Appear Here During Fourteen-day Meet; Brilliant Shasta Dream to Run; Will Use New Starting Gates

Victorians will have an opportunity next week to see a gem of consistency in action on a race track—J. A. Evans' stout mare Shasta Dream. The "dream" horse from Chilhowick, winner of eight out of ten starts on the mainland, will be among 400 odd head arriving here for the two weeks' race meet, opening at the Willows five-eighths oval.

The local fans will see Shasta Dream right at the top of her form. She started off the year in the $500 claiming division. She won, and stepped up gradually, winning six starts comfortably. In her seventh attempt she was beaten only a length and a half when the veteran Swiss jockey, Emil Spoor, found trouble in the run home. But she came right back and won two more, one a sparkling victory in the $1,000 division at Hastings Park, and then ran a close second in the final handicap.

Shasta Dream and Emil Spoor are a legend now on Vancouver tracks. Each time they came clucking down the home stretch together the crowd would give them a bigger ovation. They would get a hand such as might have been accorded one of Austin Taylor's big handicappers like Indian Broom, or old Wammonie in his prime.

LOTS OF HORSES
The local barns are just about booked full already for the fortnight's meeting, and each boat arriving this week from the mainland will carry a full complement of racers. Several good handiicap runners are expected. Charles Farrell is bringing Mr. Spence and his good grey mare Conejos, and it likely Lieut. Governor Hamber's stable will ship Orange and Goldstreak II. Big Pine and other good runners from Frank Behan's barn will also be here.

Racing will open here Saturday and continue steadily until September 28, laying off Sundays. There will be eight races a day instead of seven, putting the hurdle events full each day. This means racing will have to start earlier, probably 2 o'clock, to finish before dark. An innovation will be the introduction to Victoria fans of the new starting gates invented by Clay Puett. Sam Randall, president of the racing association, announced that the gates will function here instead of stalls. On the mainland they have been a great success and have been a big factor in improving the starts.

Frank "Wampus" Fuller probably will be in the starter's stand. Puett left last week for Spokane. Fuller did the starting for the last three days at Hastings Park with conspicuous success. Mr. Randall expressed regret it would not be possible to bring the new "camera eye" to record the finishes in Victoria. The comparatively small attendances and lower returns would not justify the expense of setting up the camera at the Willows. Daily operating expenses of the machine run high as well, he said.

GOLFERS TIE FOR MEDALIST

Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Moulds Score Net 74's in Cup Play at Colwood

In the qualifying round of the Campbell Cup played on handiicap at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday, Mrs. B. C. Richards and Mrs. Moulds tied for a tie for first place with net cards of 74. Mrs. Cecil Eve, who fouled the eighteen-hole lay-out in 89, for the best gross score of the day, finished second with a net 75.

Complete net scores follow: Mrs. B. C. Richards 74, Mrs. Moulds 74, Mrs. C. Eve 75, Mrs. C. Denham 76, Mrs. Stuckley 78, Miss G. Irving 78, Mrs. A. G. Gonnason 78, Mrs. J. Gray 80, Miss L. Island Hunting Season Will Be Ushered In On Saturday

DEER REPORTED PLENTIFUL IN MANY DISTRICTS

Blue Grouse and Band-tailed Pigeons Will Also Be Lawful Game

THREE BUCKS SEASON LIMIT

Hundreds of island sportsmen will trek into the woods early Saturday morning for the opening of the season on buck deer, blue grouse and band-tailed pigeons. During the week-end thousands of shells will be fired and no doubt some good bags will be reported.

Hunters have two and one-half months in which to bag their limit of three deer, bucks only. The season is September 12 to November 30, both dates inclusive.

A little over one month has been allotted for the shooting of blue grouse. The season gets under way Saturday, and terminates on October 15. Eighteen days are allowed for band-tailed pigeons, with the season opening Saturday and closing on September 30.

BAG LIMITS
The daily bag limit for blue grouse has been set at six per day per person, and a total of twenty-five for the season. Hunters are allowed ten pigeons daily and a total of fifty for the season.

According to recent observations, hunters will not be facing a lean year as far as deer are concerned. Farmers in the Sooke area report the presence of many of these fleet-footed game, and they have had quite a job keeping them away from their crops and gardens. Bucks are also said to be plentiful in the Cowichan district.

A check-up on the blue grouse situation produces a verdict of "not plentiful." This is how the situation sums up for the Cowichan district, which holds the reputation as being the best hunting grounds for this feathered game. Cold rains in June played havoc with young broods.

Generally speaking, these birds could not be said to be at all plentiful and a large number appear to be second brood. The reason may be the poor showing in the wild berry crops, which form the main diet for these birds.

These birds are generally to be found in areas where they have been off for three or four years, where the new growth is young and there are plenty of berry bushes.

Band-tailed pigeons are said to be fairly plentiful this season.

SPORTS MIRROR

British Columbia players, Chuck and Art Chapman and Doug Feden, Victoria, and Tony Osborne, Vancouver, would not have gone to the Olympic Games as members of the Canadian team. If the basketballers go ahead and split any athlete who plays the game will lose all chance of making an Olympic team. That is something for the lads to think about.

Along with his article Foster included a picture of Coley Hall, with the following line under the picture: "He'll be back in basketball." If basketball is to profit by the return of such players as Hall we can't see it. Two years ago at a meeting of the provincial section, several delegates wanted Hall suspended from basketball for life following his attack on a referee. He has always been a stormy petrel in the Vancouver Senior Basketball League. He attempted to introduce some of his crude rough-house tactics into basketball and soon found out they didn't go over. Basketball is better off without that type of player. As long as the sport is affiliated with the A.A.U. Hall is affiliated through his being classed as a professional from participation in the Vancouver senior ball league.

MRS. VARE MAY GIVE UP GOLF

New York, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare may yield her United States golfing title this month and retire from important competition. After twenty brilliant years of campaigning, during which she won the American title six times, the Philadelphia matron is considering definite retirement. Her mind has not been made up but her closest friends are convinced she will retire.

CHICAGO SOX NOW SECOND

Defeat Detroit 7 to 5 to Move Into Runner-up Position in American League

Although the American League is ready to take the pennant out of its winter wrappings, dust it off and award it to the New York Yankees, more attention is being paid the Chicago White Sox these days.

The Yanks may settle the matter of winning the flag before nightfall as they need only one more victory to clinch, and can accomplish that as they open their final western tour at Cleveland against the Indians, one of their two surviving rivals. With all due respect to the Yankee power, however, and the astonishing climb of the New York Giants, Jimmy Dykes's Chicagoans probably will go down as the big surprise of the 1936 season. They have made the pennant chase by climbing to top all corners except the Yanks themselves.

The Sox, hampered by injuries and hard luck most of the season, made good their status at second place by bowing over the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 5, in the only game scheduled on the major league front. That gave them sole possession of the runner-up spot and preserved their one chance in ten thousand to win the flag.

The defeat wiped out that possibility for the "Tigers and their fans" mathematical chance of catching up the Yankees, dropping them into a three-way tie for third place with the idle Indians and Washington Senators.

Lou Ambers Wants To Meet McLarnin

Herkimer, N.Y., Sept. 9.—"Skip" Enright, trainer of Lou Ambers, new lightweight champion, said yesterday Ambers would return to New York today to complete negotiations for an over-weight battle with Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welter.

Ambers said he also plans to go after Barney Ross's welterweight title.

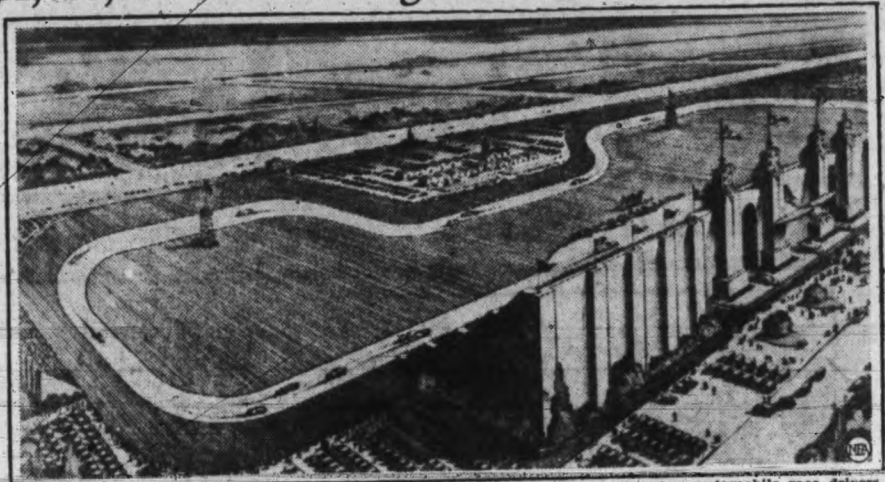

LABOR SEEKS LEGISLATION

Forty-hour Week Asked in Resolution at British Convention

Canadian Press from Havas, Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 9.—A resolution demanding government legislation to provide two weeks' annual vacation with pay for all British workers, a determined effort to secure the forty-hour week and adequate measures in all industries for the protection of workers, was approved at today's session of the Trades Union Congress.

A proposal for an amendment to the United States constitution permitting permanent enactment of social legislation is "inevitable in the near future," W. J. MacSorley, fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor, told the congress.

$1,400,000 Auto Racing Track For Los Angeles

A two-mile paved flat track, from seventy to ninety feet wide, will lure the greatest automobile race drivers in America and Europe to Los Angeles for the first contest to be run November 29 on the stretch, now being built at a cost of $1,400,000. Above is an artist's conception of the track, which also is designed for airplane speed racing.

Short Meeting In Esquimalt

Council Spends Half-hour Disposing of Business; Traffic Regulations

In one of its shortest meetings, the Esquimalt Council dealt with a number of communications and then went into committee to discuss individual relief cases, and the appointment of a police magistrate with the clock showing the sitting had been for less than half an hour yesterday evening.

The suggestions of John Dean regarding traffic regulations in the municipality were referred to the chief of police to report on at a subsequent meeting.

In the letter read to the council, Mr. Dean declared that the speed limit of twenty miles per hour in Esquimalt was not being enforced. As he believed there were not enough constables in the municipality, Mr. Dean offered to pay for a special constable for one month to see that traffic regulations were obeyed.

The council decided to pay the $10 membership fee in the Good Roads League and received and filed a communication from that organization regarding its convention to be held in Vernon and the forwarding of its resolutions on roads in the municipality to the secretary.

The payment of the membership fee in the road league stirred up a little argument, with Councillor T. Eaton feeling that the Union of British Columbia Municipalities could do all that was needed. Councillor A. Heald pointed out that the organization had done a lot of good and Councillor Eaton was voted down.

A letter from the Union of British Columbia Municipalities regarding the convention to be held in Vernon on September 22 and 23 and urging fullest representation was received and filed.

A letter from H. F. Bourne about the "dusty condition" of Constance Avenue was tabled till the end of October, when road repairs would be discussed.

On the instigation of Reeve Alex Lockley, a communication from the deputy provincial secretary on the appointment of a police magistrate for Esquimalt was put aside for discussion in committee.

PERRY BUYS VINES DRINK

World's Leading Amateur Tennis Player Beaten By Professional Ace in Friendly Match 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 and Gets "Stuck" For Orangeade

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 9.—Frederick J. Perry, England, No. 1 amateur tennis player of the world, bought a drink of orangeade late yesterday at the West side Tennis Club for Ellsworth Vines, acknowledged top-ranking professional, result of a match most court-game scouts would give their eye-teeth to see played more seriously.

Although neither player extended himself, "some beautiful" shots were displayed as Vines came out on top, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3. The tilt was a warm-up for Perry, who met Henry Cullley, Santa Barbara, Calif., today in a quarter final match of the United States singles tennis championship.

Unfortunately, while Vines did look better than Perry, the all too friendly match did not settle the contentious question of which is the greatest player. Perry never has been known to produce his best tennis when nothing is at stake—nothing, or an orangeade.

SOON DRAW CROWD

As persons attending the national championships spotted Vines and Perry exchanging shots on one of the field courts, tournament matches lost patronage. A crowd of several hundred closed in around court number thirteen, where the two were holding forth.

There was no bearing down on the service. Very little venturing up to the net, but both players kept whipping shots deep and hard to the baseline, picking the corners frequently. It was good practice and great to watch.

The two walked off the court arm-in-arm, Perry to buy Vines his orangeade.

This booklet is invaluable to the beginner. Its title might well be "Raising Healthy Chickens in a Nutshell."—Weekly paper.

Escobar Scores Knockdown

Decisively drubbing Tony Marino, conqueror of Balcazar Sangchile, International Boxing Union bantamweight champion, six-to Escobar, flashy Puerto Rican holder of the New York Commission's title, won undisputed possession of the division handle in Madison Square Garden. After flooring the Pittsburgh fighter five times in the second round, Escobar continued to cut up his foe until a state athletic commission physician ordered the fight stopped in the thirteenth round. Above, Marino is on the floor in the second, with Escobar on his way to a neutral corner.

CLOSER STARS MAY BE FOUND

U.S. Astronomer Uses New Method of Photography

By Science Service
Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 9.—The discovery of very faint stars closer to the earth and sun than any now known was predicted here, following a report by Dr. C. W. Heston of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory that "heat photographs" of the sky had discovered new stars too faint and cool to be recorded on ordinary photographic plates.

By using the new rapid infra-red plates, Dr. Heston told the American Astronomical Society meeting as part of the Harvard Centenary, cool stars of only a thousand degrees temperature can be photographed with conspicuous success. Heretofore the lowest temperature stars captured by astronomical photographs were at least 2,000 degrees.

As present the known star closest to the earth is Alpha Centauri, whose light takes four and one-third years to reach the earth. An immediate search for small faint stars that may be closer is planned by Dr. Heston. The new "heat-seeking" photographs are also expected to result in the discovery of more comets and asteroids, the small fry of the solar system which escape the astronomers' eyes and ordinary photographic observation.

Another use of the new observation method will be in a search for stars cooler and perhaps larger than the well-known red, low temperature giants like Antares and Betelgeuse.

FARM SETTLER SCHEMES SCORED

Canadian Press from Havas, Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 9.—Schemes for placing British industrial workers in Canada as farm laborers are not feasible, Fred Molynaux, delegate from the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, told the British Trades Union Congress here yesterday evening.

"If those who migrate are not farmers in the first instance, I doubt the feasibility of the project," said Molynaux. "Our experience is that an industrial worker is not easily transformed into a farmer, and will eventually return to industry."

NEW STUDY OF DIABETES

Much More Than Pancreas Involved, Says Argentine Professor

By Science Service Staff Writer

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 9.—Diabetes is not merely a matter of the health or sickness of a single gland, the pancreas, it involves many other glands and tissues of the body. This disease is basically a disturbance of a balance among many gland secretions, is the view of Prof. Bernardo A. Houssay of the University of Buenos Aires, presented here yesterday before the Harvard Centenary Conference.

The pancreas, whose secretion, insulin, enables the body tissues to burn up sugar, is balanced conspicuously against the liver, in which sugar is manufactured and stored, Prof. Houssay said. If the liver is out of action, diabetic concentrations of sugar in the blood cannot occur.

Another gland important in the body's sugar balance is the front part of the pituitary, situated under the brain. The function of its secretion, is opposite to that of insulin; it prevents too low a blood sugar content, as insulin operates against the accumulation of too much sugar. A similar sugar-maintaining effect results from the thyroid gland's secretion, and one of the tasks performed by the cortex of the adrenal gland.

Nervous connections do not seem to have any important place in the whole blood sugar picture. If nerves to the glands are severed, the glands anyway, being stimulated by the hormones or "chemical messengers" from other glands.

Wrestling Card Billed Saturday

Starting Saturday evening the Tillamook Athletic Club will usher in the first of its winter wrestling cards at the Tillamook gym.

Promoter Fred Richardson has already secured a trio of the six men who will appear. They are "Cannonball" Kitzmiller, Portland; Glen Stone, Olympia, and Louie Newman, Victoria. The show will start at 8.45 o'clock. Women with escorts will be admitted free to reserved seats.

Guy Patrick To Manage Forum

Vancouver, Sept. 9.—Guy Patrick has been named manager of the Exhibition Forum, and will move his headquarters to the new building, which destroyed the Vancouver Arena several weeks ago, to the Hastings Park building for this season's North-western Hockey League schedule home games.

Walter Leek, president of the Vancouver Exhibition Association, who made the announcement, said all other branches of sports formerly held in the Arena, will now be staged in the Forum.

No Chance for French

The class had been dismissed, but young Freddie, who had neglected to do his home work, had been told to remain behind.

"Well, Smith," said the teacher sternly, "what excuse have you to offer for not doing your French lessons last night?"

Freddie looked very thoughtful. Suddenly his face lit up.

"To tell the truth, sir," he said confidently, "my throat was so sore that I could hardly speak English."

Golf Greats Seek Canadian Honors

Leading Canadian and United States Professionals Tee Off Tomorrow in Open Tournament at Toronto; Gene Kunes Defends Title

Toronto, Sept. 9.—A new era in domestic golf opens tomorrow morning when an international field of close to 200, including most of the great players in North America, starts the seventy-two-hole run for the Canadian open championship at the St. Andrew's Club, a pay-as-you-go course north of Toronto.

For the first time in the tournament's history, the luxury of the exclusive country club has been eliminated entirely. There is no luxury at St. Andrew's where you "pay your dollar and plays your round." The course is one of the best layouts open to the public in Canada.

From the first tee to the eighteenth green it's a test of golfing skill, worthy of the notables from United States and Canada that will attack its par 70, but otherwise it looks and acts like a public course should look and act.

BIG SHOTS IN

The R.C.G.A. hopes for bigger crowds and bigger receipts as the Hagens, Diegels, Maneros, Smiths, Thomsons, Dumas, Coopers and Runyans of the business fight for the title defended by young Gene Kunes, Norristown, Pa. Kunes won a year ago at Summerville, Montreal, with a seventy-two-hole score of 280.

The former king of the amateur, Lawson Little, San Francisco, is among the challengers.

Former Canadian open champions on the firing line include Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, Joe Kirkwood and Tommy Armour. Homesters regarded as likely front-runners are Julius Huot, Quebec, former Canadian P.G.A. champion; Lex Robson, Toronto, four-times P.G.A. champion; Willie Lamb, Toronto, also winner of this event; Bobby Alston, Ottawa; Bobby Burns, Montreal; Lou Cumming, Arthur Hubert, Dick Borthwick and Gordon Brydon, Toronto.

Babe Ruth Teams With Kate Smith

New York, Sept. 9.—Babe Ruth, the prominent golfer who may be remembered as a baseball player of considerable fame is about to become a comedian on the air.

The former home-run king is to make his debut in a skit with Kate Smith. It was announced yesterday. They will appear in a domestic-comedy skit known as "Kate and Babe." If the first trial proves successful they plan to continue as a team.

Soccer Meeting

A meeting of the Intermediate Football League will be held in the Colonist boardroom tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Entries will close at the session and all clubs interested are asked to have delegates present.

The death occurred at the Royal Jubilee Hospital on Monday of Miss Agnes Grant, aged sixty-one years, 1145 Rockland Avenue. Miss Grant was born in Scotland and had been a resident of this city for the last thirteen years and previously a resident of Calgary. She is survived by her sister, Miss Mary Grant, with whom she resided, and a brother and sister in Scotland. IMMIGRATION GREAT NEED

Sir Montague Burton, British Industrialist, Offers Suggestion

What Canada lacks is manpower to develop its natural resources, in the opinion of Sir Montague Burton of Harrogate, Yorkshire, Eng., and member of the delegation with Lord Ellbank to the fourteenth congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire at Wellington, New Zealand.

"I venture to suggest that the people of Canada might consider the question of reopening its gates for immigration, so as to make it possible to fulfill its great destiny," said Sir Montague today.

"It is true there are objections to unrestricted immigration, such as the unemployment problem, and the risk of Communism, but it is a risk worth taking, for if the United States had padlocked its gates when it had a population of 10,000,000, it would never have become one of the greatest world powers today."

"Canada is a vast and glorious country," proceeded Sir Montague, "but it is only at the beginning of its greatness. It has all the qualities that are needed to make a mighty and prosperous land. It has a greater future than any country I know. It has vast natural resources yet untapped. It has minerals; it has fertile soil. Its forests and lakes are not only a source of great wealth, but are unsurpassed for grandeur and beauty. This country has well-laid out cities and towns, fine residential sections and a unique railroad system. It has men of vision and enterprise, men of genius, men of tremendous energy and skill, men who have truly laid the foundation for a flourishing and freedom-loving nation which will contribute its quota to the onward march of the human family."

Sir Montague's clothing manufacturing firm, Montague Burton Limited, has 15,000 employees on its payroll. He is one of Britain's big textile industrialists. Sir Montague will sail for Australia tonight on the Aorangi.

Word has been received by the Victoria Club for the Hard-of-Hearing that Mr. O'Brien, who was bringing a group hearing aid with him to lecture at the club on Friday has had to postpone his trip. However, the social meeting has not been cancelled and will take place at the clubrooms, 1011 Government Street, at 8 o'clock on Friday evening.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The members of Lake Hill Community Centre will meet tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Victoria and District Local Council of the A.Y.P.A. will be held on September 17, in the Memorial Hall, at 8 o'clock. All officers and branch representatives are requested to be on hand.

Entry of Bouthree Limited, 1100 Yates Street overnight, was reported this morning to the city police. Investigation disclosed entry was made through the skylight. The combination of the safe was knocked off but the contents were not disturbed.

Accompanied by Dr. J. F. Walker, provincial mineralogist, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines, will leave next week on a ten-day tour of the mining areas in the Kootenay and Shuswap districts of the British Columbia interior.

Eight-year-old Doreen Long, 1148 North Park Street, suffered leg bruises yesterday when she was struck by a car at the intersection of Blenheim and View Street. The driver of the car was George King, R.M.D. 4. The child was given first aid treatment at police headquarters and then taken home.

Suspended sentence for one year was allowed by Magistrate Henry Hall in the case of Walter H. Watkins, charged with the theft of $80.12 from the sergeant's mess of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Accidental death was the verdict of the coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death of Miss Jane Reid, who was struck by an automobile on September 3 near the corner of Burnside Road and Irma Street. The driver of the car was Frank Bailey who, witnesses said, was driving slowly at the time of the accident.

The members of the First United Church C.G.T. are requested to meet in the schoolroom of the church on Friday evening next at 7 o'clock. It is the intention to have this group assist in the music at the rally-day service to be held on Sunday, September 20, at 11 a.m. in the church. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The winners of the card games played at the Victoria West Liberal Club yesterday evening were Mrs. E. G. White and Miss Frieda Haenfratz, who won the first and second ladies' prizes, and Mrs. E. Silk and Mrs. P. Willis, being awarded those allotted for men. Mrs. W. Miller and Mr. P. Tooby received consolation prizes.

Harry Yates, Port Alberni, was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment by Magistrate Henry Hall in the Provincial Police Court yesterday when he was convicted on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated. The charge arose out of a week-end accident on the Island Highway in which the accused's car was involved with a car driven by W. G. Buckingham.

On a charge of unlawfully possessing a dangerous weapon, taken from a Japanese garden at Cordova Bay, Arthur Boyer, Fred Radet and George Belford were sentenced in the City Police Court by Magistrate Henry Hall this morning. Radet was sentenced to three months, Boyer to two months and Belford to two months and suspended sentence. Boyer was given an additional two-month term to run concurrent with the other penalty, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing an overcoat.

Island Mine Prospects Good

Pearson Back From Tour on West Coast

Impressed with the mining prospects along the west coast of Vancouver Island, around the Alberni Canal, Zeballos River and Herbert Arm sections particularly, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Commissioner of Fisheries, returned yesterday afternoon from a tour along the coast.

"There is a grand opportunity along the coast for small mining operations," he said. "Values run quite high on some properties, although the veins are not large. As long as companies are carefully capitalized and cautiously operated, I think there is money to be made in that area."

He warned against the dangers of over-capitalization and excessive optimism in the promotion of the properties.

The government this year is opening up much of that part of the island with mining trails to facilitate the operation of good prospects, he said. Work is proceeding on these projects.

"What we are most interested in, of course, are the properties which will give employment to a number of men. In the China Creek section, for instance, while the ore is said to be low grade, there is believed to be a big body of it," he said.

The fish catch on the west coast this year is about average, Mr. Pearson said, although the fishermen themselves may not do quite so well, because of a falling off in salmon trolling for the fresh fish market. Pichards have a somewhat lower content of oil than usual.

No Regrets For Defence Remarks

Elilbank, in Speech Here, Stresses Dangers to Canada From Air Attack; Refers to Toronto Speech

Though he does not presume to reflect upon Canada or Canadians, Viscount Ellbank has no regrets for the remarks he has made on Canadian defence "though I might not dare to set foot in Canada again," he adds.

Before embarking on R.M.S. Aorangi today for New Zealand to attend the triennial conference of the Federated Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, Viscount Ellbank left this thought with members of the Victoria Canadian Club, Chamber of Commerce and service clubs gathered at luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

"I have no regrets," he said, "because I still believe I'm one of the empire family and I'm justified in that capacity in saying what I know and what I believe."

Recalling his now famous speech in Toronto, Viscount Ellbank said that it had been made after he had come away from the European atmosphere where no one knew what might happen in how short or how long a time, and it had been made after reading President Roosevelt's remarks that Washington would endeavor to keep "Moody warfare" away from the U.S. shores or from its neighborhood (i.e. Canada).

"Supporting the U.S. could and would protect Canada; at what price, I ask," he said.

"IF WAR BROKE OUT"

"If war broke out," he said, it would come overnight, possibly without warning, just the appearance of a fleet of air bombers. If Canada were not prepared for this, it would have no time afterwards.

He suggested this was not the time for an alliance with the United States, although there should be co-operation between the two countries.

"I ventured to point out Canada was part of the British Empire," he spoke of new dangers which might come from the air.

Defence from air attack must take a leading part in the consideration of any nation facing this problem," he said, painting a lurid picture of its possible results.

Mrs. Beryl Markham's recent flight, a wonderful exploit, had emphasized this very fact. Her machine was capable of only 150 miles an hour, and she landed in Canada in twenty-six hours.

Fighting bombers in Europe would do from 300 to 350 miles an hour and were getting speedier daily. One type had a range of 8,000 miles, and even fully loaded with incendiary bombs could do from 4,500 to 5,000 miles without refueling.

"This is what we're up against in Europe," he said, "that you're up against in this country as well," he said.

"I believe we can only make ourselves safe by providing defence in the air to the extent of our capacity. Some people question the good of air defence, arguing that attackers will break through anyway and that we should take a chance. They forget that the best defence is to be able to attack."

"They also forget that if war breaks out in Europe it will be a ruthless and bloody war. We have seen modern warfare as a federation of the Italians in Ethiopia. Are we to expect that nations believing in the sword will be any less bloody or any less ruthless in another war."

TO DEFEND EMPIRE

"At Toronto I had these things in mind when I ventured to suggest that Canada's position in that respect would be no better than anyone else's."

Viscount Ellbank said that his remarks on defence were not out of place in view of Canada's interest in maintaining empire trade routes.

"We, as a federation of chambers of commerce, feel there is no use having an empire trade stretching to every corner of the world unless we are able to defend it," he said.

"But, in any remarks I made in course of my peregrinations in Canada, I never would pass any reflections on Canada or Canadians. After all, how could I or why should I? Surely Canada, in the last war, has created for herself such a glorious record that it requires no comment of any kind, far less from myself, to make people understand what Canada is or what Canada has done."

At the coming convention in New Zealand the Ottawa trade agreements will be discussed, the speaker said.

From the fact that Canadian trade with Great Britain and Empire countries had increased remarkably, one must agree that the Ottawa agreements were good, he said. There had been criticism made, and there would have to be changes, not by another bilateral conference, but through bilateral agreements between the different units of the empire.

EMPIRE TRADE

The foundations laid at Ottawa can and will be built upon for the future to consolidate more and more on a larger scale of the trade of the empire," he said.

"Empire trade is the most profitable kind you can have, because you can sleep in bed at night and know you'll have it in the morning."

After the 1932 conference, Great Britain's trade had increased $38,000,000 each year. Canada's exports to Britain increased $13,000,000, and its imports $5,000,000, an advantage to Canada of $8,000,000, he said.

He touched briefly upon immigration to Canada from Great Britain. After flying over British Columbia, with its 750,000 people in an area four times that of Britain and as large as Germany, Russia and Belgium together, with vast timber, mineral and agricultural resources, the lack of population was apparent.

"For a long time we in the Old Country have been looking here and wishing we could send more people out here. Naturally you and your governments have had troubles, like other parts of the world, making it more difficult to send people out who would add to your unemployed."

"Today I hope things are changing in that direction. When your Dominion and provincial governments are ready to have some more people I know we will be prepared on our side to do what we can to help that situation."

He also made reference to the difficulties of the Canadian-Australian line against fierce competition, urging the preservation of the Empire transportation routes. The question was raised in the British Commons and would be discussed by the Federated Chamber. A resolution urging all the interested governments would be passed, he hoped.

Herbert Anson, president of the Canadian Club, introduced the speaker, and Harold Husband, president of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsored the vote of thanks.

FRED M. MCGREGOR
My Boyhood Ambition
A MARINE ENGINEER

"I wanted to be an engineer," says Fred M. McGregor, Vancouver Island manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Company—
"A marine engineer."

Following his ambition when he was sixteen, he was apprenticed to the Victoria Machinery Depot, where his earnestness was so much appreciated that after a year's work he was given an increase of 50 per cent in his pay.

The above picture shows Mr. McGregor about the time he was serving his apprenticeship.

"Such tasks as laying out ship's plate were allotted to him."

"Soon," Mr. McGregor says, "I felt I could build a ship myself."

He became enthusiastic about insurance after taking out his first policy, asked for a job selling insurance while clerking in a store, and got it.

"There's nothing I'd like better," he says of his job now. "I'm constantly working for the happiness and contentment of others. It is a great satisfaction to know you are engaged in a profession which is helpful to the community. I only feel sorry about the thousands of people I haven't helped yet, and if I had to make my choice again I'd be an insurance salesman."

FATAL CRASH DETAILS TOLD

Coroner's Jury Decides Eugene Rosin Met Death By Accident

Accidental death was the verdict of the coroner's jury which this morning conducted an investigation into the death of Eugene Rosin, longshoreman, who received fatal injuries in an accident on Esquimalt Road early last Saturday morning.

Details of the accident were told by Nicholas Lystar, a passenger in the car, and John Buckingham, a pedestrian who witnessed the crash.

Mr. Lystar told the jury he thought the car in which he and Rosin were driving with E. A. Richardson and Edward Osgood "was going a little too fast for the corner." He could not estimate the speed but judged it to be "over thirty miles an hour."

Osgood has been charged with manslaughter as a result of the accident. He appeared this morning with H. W. Davey as his lawyer, but did not testify. G. H. Sedger appeared for the municipality of Esquimalt.

OFFERED RIDE

Lystar told of meeting Rosin at a dance at the C.F. Hall and of the latter's offer to take Lystar and Richardson home in a friend's car. The friend was Osgood.

The four were seated in the front seat of the roadster, Lystar testified. He sat next to Osgood and Rosin sat on Richardson's knee. Driving along Esquimalt Road, Lystar said, they were traveling at a moderate rate of speed. As they approached the hill and the corner near the Island Weavers' plant, Osgood accelerated the car slightly.

"As we neared the corner there was a screech of brakes and I felt the car moving sideways. That was all I knew," he said.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Davey, Lystar said he did not consider Osgood's driving dangerous "until we started taking the curve." He said he had formed an opinion that the tire had blown out and had been the cause of the accident.

TERROR-STRIKEN

John Buckingham testified he was at the corner of Dunsmuir Street and Esquimalt Road when his attention had been attracted to the Osgood car traveling along Esquimalt Road. "I heard him coming behind me," he said in a hurry. Then I heard the screech of brakes. I was terror-stricken by the noise but I remember an explosion like a tire which was almost simultaneous with the crash," he said. He could not estimate the speed in miles per hour.

NEW PASTOR HERE SUNDAY

Rev. J. R. Craig Believes Radio Menace to Church Attendance

Rev. J. Richmond Craig, one of Canada's best-known ministers, who has accepted the pastorate of the Fairfield United Church, will arrive in Victoria before the end of the week, and will preach in his new church next Sunday. It was learned here this morning.

In recent years Mr. Craig has been in charge of Winnipeg's Grace Methodist Church.

Mr. Craig was educated in arts at Glasgow University and studied theology at the Vancouver Presbyterian Theological College. He said in an interview in Toronto the other day he was first brought to Canada by the late Rev. Dr. E. D. MacLaren of St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver. He began his ministry in Alberta.

During the summer Mr. Craig has been preaching in Toronto's great Metropolitan Church and drawing capacity congregations. On Sunday evenings over 2,000 people have been in attendance.

In the Toronto Star recently appeared an interview with Mr. Craig by R. E. Knapp.

MODERN SUNDAY

Mr. Craig was asked what he thought about the modern Sunday and whether he forbade the men of the congregation, particularly his elders, to play golf on that day.

"No," he replied. "I do not. My own opinion is that the greatest menace to church attendance today lies in the radio. It has done more than anything else to spoil the evening congregations."

Mr. Craig is known throughout Canada as the pastor of the unemployed. He has done great work among this class. He gathers up everything he can in the way of clothing and sells it. In the last four years he has amassed for unemployed families approximately $150,000. It is expected he will continue this splendid work in Victoria.

Mr. Knowles asked Mr. Craig what he thought about the union of the churches.

"I'd say it was a step in the right direction," he replied. "But I believe the main weakness of the United Church lies in this—the loss of the competitive spirit. That doesn't sound very good, I know, but I believe the fact is there."

"Tell people this," Mr. Craig said to the interviewer, "that the supreme duty for all us ministers is to make goodness attractive."

The appeal of James and John Pomeroy of New Westminster, against conviction by Magistrate H. S. Wood at Vancouver, to six months in jail at hard labor for being in possession of stolen truck tires was dismissed in the B.C. Appeal Court today on an equal division. Chief Justice Macdonald and Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald dismissed the appeal, while Mr. Justice McPhillips and Mr. Justice McQuarrie would allow. Mr. Justice Martin was absent.

There is a thriving little second-hand furniture business at 713 Johnson Street that has expanded considerably during the last year. In January last Martin Boas took over the business of Arthur's Exchange at this address. Since then he has taken in four other small stores, making a large showroom for his better class furniture. He has renamed the business "The Hub." Associated with Mr. Boas is Ted Pastell, a well-known Victorian, also M. Strong, in the upholstery and cabinet shop.

LEGAL FORCE LACKS UNITY

Slowness of Catalonians' Campaign in Spain Attributed to Friction

Barcelona, Sept. 9 (Uncaensored).—Despite the bravery of Catalonia's loyalist troops, a civil war within a civil war was revealed to me today as the real reason for the slow progress of the loyalist armies on the Aragon and Huesca fronts.

The reasons for Barcelona's disappointment over their efforts so far, and their dissatisfaction with the slowness of the campaign, may be summed up as follows:

- 1.—A lack of any unity of command and political impossibility of naming a generalissimo.
- 2.—Insufficient arms and munitions and outdated equipment.
- 3.—A conflict in the philosophy of discipline between anarchists and leftists.
- 4.—The inevitable disagreements between Barcelona and Madrid.

I discussed these questions frankly with one of their most competent generals, just returned from the Aragon front. His impressions were confirmed from similar conversations I had with militiamen, with anarchists and with the people themselves.

MANY COMMANDS
The military operations are suffering from a multiplicity of commands. Major Perez Farras, appointed as military chief for Barcelona, was chosen because he was a career soldier and officer, for his services rendered Catalonia and the republic and to create confidence in the general.

But on the Aragon front Commander Farras has not shown himself familiar with the special conditions required to assume such a task. The Anarcho-Syndicalist leader Rurru, would be a good chief and a leader of men on that front, but he would not be accepted by most of the militiamen or the general public because of his terrorist past.

Col. Villalba, who is leading the fight on the Huesca front, appears to be the best man from a technical point of view, but he possesses neither a revolutionary past nor even a good republican record.

Five Fishermen Are Given Fines

New Westminster, Sept. 9.—Five fishermen received fines totalling ninety-five dollars when they appeared before Magistrate Harry Johnston in district court here yesterday for infractions of fishing regulations.

Two Japanese fishermen were fined fifteen dollars each for using a gill net without a license; two other men were each fined fifteen dollars for fishing with "set nets," and a fifth man was fined fifteen dollars for having a net of excessive length.

RHEUMATISM SPREAD TO ALL HER JOINTS

Obtained Relief by Using Kruschen Salts

Here is a story of suffering, but it has a happy ending. This woman was attacked by severe rheumatism which spread to all her joints. But Kruschen brought relief as she describes below:

"I feel it my duty to tell you how Kruschen Salts brought me relief from a severe attack of rheumatism. I had rheumatism in my legs and knees, later spreading to every joint in my body. This lasted over a period of 13 weeks. I was then ordered to bed with acute rheumatism. I was recommended to try Kruschen and before finishing the second bottle I was able to perform my normal duties."

(Mrs.) I. D.

Rheumatic conditions are frequently due to the excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved uric acid through the natural channels.

At End of Record Ocean Hop

So insistent with attention were the natives of the Welsh countryside where Harry Richman and Dick Merrill landed their plane after a record-breaking flight across the Atlantic that the flies were forced to take refuge in the cabin and close the door. In this photograph, flown to London and flashed across the ocean, a woman holding a baby converses with Richman (centre) and Merrill as they stand guard over the plane.

CITY EXHIBIT FAIR FAVORITE

Record in Former Exhibitions Increases Prestige of Local Display

With an enviable record established in the last two or three years, Victoria will again go in quest of major produce honors in the annual fair at the Willows, starting Saturday.

The city will be out to defend its supremacy in the district exhibit class. First honors have been won by the capital in the last two years here and in Vancouver.

Hopes of those interested in the local entry were considerably increased last month when the Victoria exhibit again took first place in the Terminal City.

The competition will be somewhat keener this year, five entries having been filed in place of four in 1935. Burnaby, runner-up last year, will again strive to wrest the laurels from Victoria, while Surrey, Coquitlam and Langley are all in the running for the award.

GOOD PRIZES

Regarded as the centre pieces of the entire main building, the district exhibits carry awards of a gold medal and $300 for first place, a silver medal and $250 for second, and bronze medals and $225 and $175 respectively for third and fourth.

Entries are marked on a basis of a 1,945-point maximum covering arrangement, poultry produce, apical produce, fresh fruits, garden vegetables, preserved fruits and vegetables, field roots and tubers, forage plants and grain and seeds.

Rich in their natural autumnal shades, the produce is enhanced by skillful and attractive arrangement which gives to that section of the fair a unique distinction in a building which houses thousands of gorgeous blooms and other attractive horticultural and agricultural exhibits.

South American Drugs Traced

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9.—United States chemists have isolated in crystalline form the potent material which South American natives have long used in the rough state to combat a wide range of diseases.

ful protein-cleaving enzyme which dissolves parasitic worms, was announced at the sessions of the American Chemical Society here yesterday, by Dr. Alphonse Wailt, research chemist of Merck & Co., Rahway, N.J.

The enzyme, obtained as an extract from the milky sap of the fig tree, and therefore named "ficin," is found to dissolve live worms in the laboratory. Ficin has been identified as the active principle of "Oje," the mysterious healing agent widely used by South American natives.

MILK OF FIG TREE

In 1934, Dr. Wailt continued, Professors B. H. Robbins and P. D. Lamson of Vanderbilt University showed that the milk, or latex, of the fig tree contained a similar protein-cleaving enzyme. In 1929 Dr. Fred C. Caldwell of the Rockefeller Foundation, proved the efficacy of the fig tree latex against whipworm.

The experiments, wherein worms were dissolved by the crystalline enzyme, upon previously-held theories on enzyme reactions, Dr. Wailt pointed out.

"It has previously been maintained," he said, "that enzymes are without effect on living cells or organisms. The dissolving of live acaris by crystalline ficin renders this common conception invalid."

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press from Havas).—General Viktor Franko, seventy-one, who led the German forces in Southwest Africa during the Great War, died here yesterday. He signed the capitulation of Korob, which surrendered the German colony to the British.

London Head

McConnell, Baxter and Eastman Limited have appointed Viggo E. Kihl, shown above, as London, England, manager. He is a son of the eminent Canadian pianist, Viggo Kihl.

SCORE ARRESTED AT TERNI, ITALY

Terni, Italy, Sept. 9.—Approximately twenty persons, it has been learned, were arrested in this centre of war materials manufacture following the discovery of small leaflets, posted on the walls of factory rooms, which praised the action of Spanish Communists.

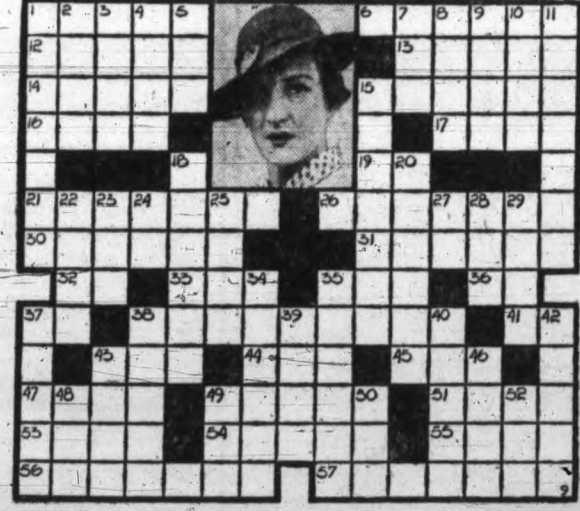

The arrests were made about a fortnight ago, it was said.

DOMINION THEATRE

The film writers seem eager to keep Henry Fonda unmarried—to judge only from the roles he has had in his two most recent pictures.

In Walter Wanger's "Spendthrift," now at the Dominion Theatre, Fonda runs into domestic trouble when he marries a southern lass, Mary Brian, only to discover that she is a gold-digger and a fortune hunter.

COLUMBIA BOOKS SOVIET PICTURE

The management of the Columbia Theatre today announced that the Russian production "Peasants" will open on Monday.

The film deals with a problem of socialist agricultural construction which still remains the most important problem in the Soviet Union.

Friedrich Ermler, famous director, handled the production. Taking one compact episode, Ermler, in a firmly knit story, covers much ground, presenting with considerable authenticity the contemporary life of a Russian village.

ATLAS TO SHOW WESTERN FILM

"Hopalong Cassidy," star of western drama, will be seen in "Bar 20 Rides Again," which will open at the Atlas Theatre tomorrow. More than fifty cowboys headed by William Boyd and Jimmy Ellison, are co-starred in the story by Clarence Mulford.

Frances Dee plays the leading role in the second feature "Half Angel." Charles Butterworth, the droll, expressionless comedian, returns to his first love, newspaper work, in this feature.

PLAZA THEATRE

The first natural-color picture of the outdoors, Walter Wanger's production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," is now at the Plaza Theatre, with Sylvia Sydney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda in the starring roles.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," based on the famous novel of the same title by John Fox Jr., was filmed on a location almost exactly like the Cumberland Mountain country in which the Fox novel was set. Under direction of Henry Hathaway, who also directed "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," it was filmed entirely in the new three-color Technicolor process.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Rafael Corio, noted stage actor and former leading man to Katherine Cornell, portrays the role of the villain in the Mascot fun feature, "Doughnuts and Society," the attraction at the Columbia Theatre. Corio, who achieved distinction in such Broadway hits as "Rio Rita," "Lulu Belle," "Crashing Thru," "Sex Fable" and many others, won many prizes for his work as the pseudo-Russian count in the recent film, "Farmer in the Dell."

OAK BAY THEATRE

Playing for the last time this evening, Paramount's enthralling picture, "Private Worlds," with Claudette Colbert, Joan Bennett and Charles Boyer, finishes its run at the Oak Bay Theatre.

On Thursday the Oak Bay Theatre will present Fox Film's brilliant musical picture, "Here's to Romance."

A romantic love story adds zest to a picture which includes such stars as Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Nino Martin, Anita Louise, Reginald Denny, Maria Gamberelli, the world's greatest ballerina, and Vincente Escudero.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "San Francisco," spectacular musical romance of early San Francisco produced by Bernard Hyman and John Emerson, directed by W. S. Van Dyke, and starring Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy now at the Capitol Theatre.

Profit-taking With Irregular Close On Wall Street Market

MINES ACTIVE AT TORONTO

Close Fractionally Lower At Winnipeg

BONDS STEADY AT NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 9.—Efforts to stimulate a further upturn in the stock market met with resistance today and profit-takers clipped substantial chunks off some of the recent leaders.

At that, it was not a one-way session and a number of issues managed to emerge with moderate gains. The close was irregular. Transfers were around 1,600,000 shares.

Brokers' commentators attributed the day's ragged performance largely to technical influences having to do with the recent break-advance.

There was no change in optimistic economic prospects. On the other hand, the European scene was observed with some minglings.

Commission houses with foreign connections reported purchases of high-grade American securities from London.

Bonds were mixed. Corn at Chicago was unchanged to 1/4, cents a bushel lower. Wheat was off 1/4 to 1/2.

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—Wheat futures prices today pushed up above the dollar-a-bushel level for the second successive day on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and then retreated in the wave of selling that offset substantial export trade.

At the close values were 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 cent lower with October at 99, December at 97 1/2 to 97 3/4, and May at 96 1/2 to 96 3/4, a bushel.

Increased hedging pressure coupled with profit-taking on the upturns offset a good export trade. Prices slipped from 1-cent gains to below the previous closing level in the last hour of trading. Wheat marketed for overseas consumption was estimated at 1,500,000 bushels.

Tarzan And The Leopard Men

Waiting the magical hyena call at Tarzan once more, Sobia concluded: "By this fetish you will die within seven days." The villagers were duly impressed. They had no doubt that the witch-doctor's curse would take effect before the appointed period had elapsed.

But the white man stood calmly, with folded arms. "I am Musimo," he said dramatically. "I am the spirit of Orando's ancestor. Sobia is only a man; his fetish is only the tail of a hyena. As he ceased speaking his hand shot out and smothered the fetish.

"This does Musimo with the powerless fetish of Sobia!" he cried. Then Tarzan threw the hyena tail to the earth and ground it under his heel. The villagers were seized with consternation. Their age-old world of voodoo and taboo was collapsing.

The rage of unreasoning fanaticism flamed in Sobia's mind. The froth of madness flecked his blue-red lips. His yellow face gleamed in a hideous snarl. With no thought save of caution, he flung himself upon "Musimo," a naked blade in his agitated hand!

Why Are Happy Marriages So Scarce? It Depends On What You Call Happiness

Dorothy Dix

ARE THERE ANY HAPPY MARRIAGES? A man asks this question and adds: "I am thirty-five years old. I have been about a great deal and have a wide acquaintance, but among the hundreds of married couples I do not know of one happy marriage. My parents were not happy together. My married brothers and sisters are not happy and it is because, so far as my observation goes, marriage brings only misery that I have not married myself. Tell me, on your word of honor, do you personally know of any happy marriages?"

Yes, I have known of four happy marriages, marriages in which the husband and wife loved each other better as the years went by and grew closer together, in which they found their chief joy in each other's companionship, in which there was utter congeniality and in which they lived in a peace and harmony that was never broken by an unkind word or a harsh criticism. Four happy marriages out of the 4,000,000 marriages that I have either known of myself or contacted through this column. Isn't that a batting average for matrimony? But if you will try to count up the number of marriages you know among your friends—open whose happiness you will bet money, you will not wonder that divorce is so common. You will be amazed that it is so rare.

This leads to the conclusion that we can no more judge of what makes for happiness in marriage among people than we can what books or food or plays they will like, and proves that most of our pity over the apparently mistreated is wasted. When we see a couple wrangling over every trivial matter and hurling unforfeitable insults at each other, we wonder how they can endure such a cat and dog existence together.

When we hear a poor, abject, helpless man say "ma'am" to his wife and meekly submitting to her tyrannies, we weep over his sufferings. When we behold a clever man married to a dull, stupid woman, or a refined, intelligent woman married to a coarse brute of a man, or a warm-hearted, affectionate woman tied to a human frigidate, we think what failures their marriages are and how unhappy these poor creatures are unequally yoked together must be.

In which conclusion we are probably wrong ninety-nine times out of a hundred. The fighters get a kick out of scrapping and wouldn't miss their daily dozen punches for words. The henpecked man has a mother complex and wants a wife who will tell him what to eat and pick out his neckties. The brilliant man couldn't stand a wife who was his intellectual equal. He wants a Dumb Dora, to whom he will be a little tin god. Any police court judge will tell you that the women who have husbands who beat them to a pulp kiss the hands that batter them about and ask for more of the cave-man stuff.

So you see there are no standards for happiness in marriage and no way by which we can judge whether a marriage is a success or not. What one man's meat is another man's poison. We have all seen husbands perfectly devoted to shrews and niggers and actually mourn them when they die. And we have seen wives cling to the men who insulted them by their infidelities and dragged them into the gutter by their drunkenness and shiftlessness, yet who never forgive you if you suggest that they leave the husbands who so ill-treat them.

And so the answer to the question, "are there any happy marriages?" is bound to be "yes." A very few in which husbands and wives, through tenderness and love and consideration, make marriage a heaven on earth. Many in which biting, fighting, scratching husbands and wives seem to make marriage a purgatory for each other, but in which they somehow find the taint of their own nature that makes them happy. Perhaps they prefer danger to safety, adventure to quiet ways, a scrimmage to peace. Nobody knows. Anyway, husbands and wives are purely a matter of taste, and if you like 'em that way, that's the way you like 'em.

After all, the proof of the matrimonial pudding is in chewing the string, and inasmuch as very few men and women in this day possess the martyr complex it is obvious that most marriages must be fairly satisfactory, or else. To the modern mind, useless suffering does not make sense, and so the reason that husbands and wives stick together is because they want to.

And if other evidence were needed to prove that marriages are not as unhappy as they seem, it is to be found in the fact that widows and widowers and even divorcees, having sampled marriage, are almost universally eager to try it again.

Hence no man need stay single because he has got cold feet from observing the marriage of his friends. It is one of the gambles that are worth taking a chance on.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S STICKERY FUN

By HOWARD E. GARIS

"Whoopie! Whoopie!"

"That's the time I got you!"

"Yes, but now watch me get you!"

"I'll be right on the spot!"

"That was a good one!" a voice yelled.

"Watch me get Bunty now!" said another voice.

"My goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, jumping out of his seat. "It's the Bad Chaps after my little rabbits! I just telephoned for the Police Dog. But I'll go down there and help fight."

"As Mr. Longears, his pink nose fiercely twinkling, started to run to the east of the yard he saw Jackie Bow Wow, one of the puppy dog boys, coming up on the run and laughing.

"Well, if Jackie is laughing it can't be any Bad Chap, because Mr. Longears' dog, Jackie, is a Police Dog. And when the puppy reached him Uncle Wiggily asked: "What's going on in the back yard, Jackie?"

HAVING FUN

"Oh, a lot of your rabbit boys and girls are having fun," barked Jackie.

"What kind of fun?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Sticky fun," laughed Jackie.

"Then if it's fun why aren't you playing with them?" the rabbit uncle asked.

"I don't like sticky fun," laughed Jackie.

"Peeble and I got stuck up once and it took us a week to get unstuck."

"Unstuck from what?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"From burdock burrs and stickers," said the puppy.

"Burdock and stickers?" Uncle Wiggily asked. "Burdock and stickers? All the others are throwing burdock burrs and all kinds of sticky things. What else, Jackie?"

"You ought to see 'em! Oh, boy!"

"I suppose I should see them," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as Jackie ran on laughing. "Sticky fun, eh? I wonder what their mother and Nurse Jane will say!"

When Uncle Wiggily reached a sort of dingy dell behind the tall weeds in the back yard he saw the rabbit children running around throwing the burdock burrs at one another. The burrs are really seed pods of the burdock weed. Each seed pod, about as large as a marble, has many stiff hooks on it, and when the burrs are thrown at any animal with fur or hair, or even if the burrs touch you clothing, they stick very fast.

"STOP IT!"

"Stop it! Stop it!" cried Uncle Wiggily, hopping into the midst of the sticky fun-playing rabbits. "My what sticks you are!"

"I've stuck more burrs on Custer than he did on me," said Buster.

"And I stuck a lot of 'em on Jingle," said Baby Bunty.

"Look at yourself!" said Jackie. "You're stuck up to the ears with burrs. Truth to tell, the little orphan rabbit was."

"No more of this sticky fun!" ordered Uncle Wiggily. "Hop to the hushlow, all of you. I'll have to help your mother and Nurse Jane pull and comb the stickers out of your fur!"

Then, before a sad time. It was easy enough to throw the stickers, and they stuck easily and hard and fast. But it wasn't so easy to pull them out. The weed hooks had a firm hold. And there were tags in the eyes of all the rabbit children before the last burr was pulled out. Their fur looked very untidy indeed.

"I'm not going to play that game any more," said Bunty. The others said the same. And if it hadn't been for the fact that the baby sneeze its hair ribbon off, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the summer snow.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1936

Genetic aspects rule strongly today, according to astrology. It is a time, however, to be exceedingly cautious in financial matters.

Foretold may be kept under this sway, which is not favorable to the signing of contracts and especially adverse for international agreements. Better discussion over a past between Uncle Sam and a foreign nation is forecast.

The planetary government is fortunate for the United States air forces, which will be greatly strengthened through the Pacific Coast will centralize attention in its aviation development.

While there is a sign that assures clear vision regarding both personal and public affairs, there is a peril through the autumn a resolve to endure what cannot be easily cured.

This should be an auspicious day for labor interests. Better understanding among leaders is indicated and industry this month should show a progress towards stability and peace and order.

Travel on the high seas and a widespread movement of great vessels are forecast.

Women today should subordinate their personal interests. The rule encourages club organizations and peace movements. Despite present protests the United States will become involved in the next world war, the stars warn.

Reforms in the management of hospitals, penitentiaries and other institutions supported by public funds are prognosticated. Sentences, executions are commuted. Persons whose birthdays it is have the augury of a year of prosperity. For certain ones, however, other better are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly restless and ambitious. Subjects of this sign seek travel and change. Usually they are of sturdy, reliable character.

Joseph Wheeler, soldier and congressman who was born on this day, 1836. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Mungo Park, explorer, 1775, and Poultny Bigelow, writer, 1824.
